More Call On Nixon To Quit

House Republican leader said Thursday the country would benefit if President Nixon resigned and another said Nixon should consider resignation "as a possible option.

Sen. Marlow Cook, a Kentucky Republican, said Nixon should consider resignation, and informed sources said that Sen. Richard Schweiker, a Pennsylvania Republican, would call for Nixon's resignation at a news conference scheduled here

Rep. John B. Anderson, chairman of the House Republican conference, said the country would benefit. Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona, House GOP leader, said Nixon "ought to consider resignation as a possible option" if erosion of public confidence bars him from effectively carrying out his duties.

Their comments came on the day the House Judiciary Committee met behind closed doors for the initial presentation of evidence in its inquiry into whether there are grounds for impeachment of President

The Senate Watergate Committee also met behind closed doors with C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, Nixon's personal friend, appearing.

The committee has subpoenaed detailed financial records of Rebozo, including those dealing with loans to or from Nixon, Patricia Nixon Cox and the President's two brothers, court papers showed.

The Senate committee also voted to issue a new subpoena for Alexander M. Haig Jr., White House chief of staff, who last week invoked executive privilege in refusing to testify about $100,000 which Rebozo has said he received from a representative of Howard Hughes in 1969 and 1970. Rebozo has said the money was intended as a Nixon campaign contribution but was kept in a vault and returned to Hughes last year.

Elsewhere at the Capitol, a final draft of a proposed House report concludes that President Nixon's homes have cost $17.1 million in federal funds and says federal agencies should try to recover any improper expenditures.

The report will be considered by the House Government Operations Committee next Tuesday. Copies were sent to members Thursday, and The Associated Press was permitted to take extensive notes from one

The draft report includes the findings previously disclosed that some of the spending was for items "far in excess of what was required to meet security requests.

Anderson said he and other Republican congressional leaders have considered going to Nixon and asking him to resign. But he said they have decided to wait until after a House vote on impeachment.

Rhodes, when asked if the GOP leaders might personally press upon Nixon a suggestion that he quit, seemed to choose his words carefully as he replied "I know of no definite plan at this time.

At the White House, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said Nixon "is determined to remain in office despite the comments by some and the attacks by others.'

In a statement issued by his office here, Sen. Cook said that he is "now firmly convinced that resignation is a course of action which he (Nixon) must realistically contemplate in order that the confidence and faith of the American people in our government can be re-

Cincinnati Reds Assist Burn Unit

If the Cincinnati Reds major league baseball team has some extra boosters on the sixth level of St. Elizabeth Community Health Center, it will be understandable

Sixth level at St. Elizabeth is the site of Nebraska's first specialized treatment area for burn and trauma patients. It was opened in mid-December 1973 as a four-bed unit.

Sparked by the interest of Lincolnite and Reds' pitching coach Larry Shepard. St. Elizabeth received a donation of $1,200 from members of the Cincinnati team to be used "towards the cost of equipment that you deem necessary for the burn unit.'

A note with the donation said: "Not only are our thoughts and prayers with those who suffer burns, but also our desire to make it a little less painful by our offerings.

The note was signed by Shepard, manager Sparky Anderson, and players Johnny Bench, Jack Billingham, Pedro Borbon, Clay Carroll, Don Gullett, Tom Hall, Clay Kirby, Mike McQueen, Joe Morgan, Roger Nelson, Fred Norman. Pat Osburn, Tony Perez and Pete Rose.

St. Elizabeth executive director Jack E. Stiles said it was an "outstanding tribute to these men, whose homes are in communities far from our own, that they should take an active interest in something simply because they see a need and a way to help others.

Park Board Endorses Pool For Meadowlane

By LYNN ZERSCHLING Star Staff Writer

The city's next swimming pool will be adjacent to the Meadowlane School under a plan endorsed by the Parks and Recreation Board Thursday.

The board unanimously selected that east Lincoln location over a site in the Seacrest Field area after a board subcommittee held several public hearings on the matter and made its recommendation.

Residents of both areas had petitioned for a pool in their respective neighborhoods.

Subcommittee member Ralph Giebelhaus reported that construction of pools at both locations would be justified. He noted, however, that the board already has submitted its 1974-75 capital improvements budget.

That budget has plugged in $240,000 for one pool at an unspecified spot. The planning commission also has endorsed that plan. The final decision rests with the City Council which will hold its annual budget hearing in mid

The Meadowlane area warrants the facility, Giebelhaus maintained, since a greater number of potential swimmers live within a one mile radius of the school.

Recreation Superintendent Dick Leker said September, 1973, school enrollment figures show there are 700 more students between the ages of 5-19 living in that area than around Seacrest Field.

If for some reason the city cannot reach an agreement with the School Board to use adjacent Meadowlane school property, Giebelhaus recommended that the pool be built in Seacrest Field instead.

Board members pointed out that construction of a pool in that south Lincoln location will remain a high priority item during budget discussions next

This is the second straight year the board has tried for a swimming pool in east Lincoln.

Last year, the board budgeted $450,000 for a combination indoor-outdoor pool. The pool was slashed at budget time.

This year the board is trying for an outdoor facility only since the city's high school pools are open to the public on weekends.

The board also went on record supporting the concept of developing a mammoth tennis court complex at Woods Park. The board directed board chairman Clancy Woolman to appoint a special committee to study the proposal submitted by the Lincoln Tennis Association.

Association President Jack Eidswick presented a detailed proposal to the board which called for construction of a twolevel clubhouse, hiring of a pro to manage the center and give lessons, construction of additional courts to reach 24 with six to be converted to indoor courts during the winter months and construction of windbreaks and bleachers.

Architect Bob Dawson said the complex could be built in stages. He estimated a 2,000square-foot clubhouse would cost around $60,000, which included the extension of utilities to the facility.

Eidswick said the tennis center could pay for itself by charging fees for various ac-

A survey conducted by Eidswick showed that people lined up to play at Woods Park, leaving various neighborhood tennis courts vacant.

As a temporary measure Woolman suggested the board could advertise the location of those courts to the public.

Members Receive Thick Black Book

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Judiciary Committee met behind closed doors on Thursday for the initial presentation of evidence in its historic inquiry into whether there are grounds for the impeachment of President Nixon.

At a 21/2-hour session, committee members received evidence covering the events leading up to the June 17, 1972. break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters. It included development early that year of plans by Nixon campaign officials to collect political intelligence.

Each of the 38 committee members received a thick black loose-leaf notebook containing an index of all the material collected by the impeachment inquiry

The members also received another notebook which included specific statements bearing on the allegations against the President and documents and transcripts dealing with them.

Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., and the ranking Republican, Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan. reminded the members during brief opening ceremonies of their weighty constitutional responsibilities

James D. St. Clair, President Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, attended the session but took no active part.

As they left the closed session, committee members declined to discuss what they had heard.

Rodino briefed newsmen, saying that there were a number of specific references during the meeting to the material developed by a federal grand jury and turned over to the committee by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Rep. John Convers, D-Mich., joined Rodino at the briefing and said none of the evidence presented surprised him.

The committee is scheduled to meet again at 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday to continue hearing evidence from the staff.

Rodino said that no White House tapes were played during Thursday's presentation. Playing of tapes is expected to be part of the presentation next week.

The chairman said he hoped the committee could move into open sessions after conclusion of this initial phase but that no definite plans have been made.

Rodino's and Hutchinson's opening statements took less than eight minutes to read and then the committee voted 31 to 6 to begin hearing the evidence in

The six committee members who opposed receiving the evidence in closed session were Reps. John Convers of Michigan, Robert F. Drinan of Massachusetts, Joshua Eilberg of Pennsylvania. Elizabeth Holtzman of New York, Charles Rangel of New York and Jerome Waldie of California, all Democrats.

Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., was not present for the vote.

"I don't need to stress again the importance of our undertaking and the wisdom. decency and principle which we must bring to it," Rodino said in his statement. "We understand our high constitutional responsibility. We will faithfully live up Hutchinson referred to the panel as starting "consideration of the most awesome power constitutionally vested in the House of Representatives.

The 150 seats in the committee room filled early, 90 of them with reporters and most of the others with relatives or friends of committee members.

A long line had formed outside the hearing room with people hoping to attend the historic session. Only 10 got in.

The key issue in this first phase of the presentation of evidence will be whether the material dealing with President Nixon's Watergate role is grounds for his

A simple majority is required to approve impeachment in the House. If it is approved, the Senate would take up the issue, where a two-thirds majority is needed for conviction.

Rodino said the phase dealing with the Watergate break-in and cover-up "is one of six areas of our inquiry. We expect to continue our inquiry until each area has been thoroughly examined," he said.

Among the specific areas expected to be considered at future sessions are the ITT antitrust settlement, political contributions from the dairy industry and allegations that there may have been fraud involved in the preparation of the President's tax returns since 1969

Fluoridation On 100 Ballots

Star Staff Writer

Fluoridation - a hot potato in Nebraska before and since its enactment by the State Legislature last year will definitely dominate special issues facing voters in the state next

In at least 100 communities across the state, voters will decide whether or not to add fluorides to their water systems as ordered by the Legislature. The balloting will be held in conjunction with the state's May 14 primary

At the time the fluoridation measure was passed, the Unicameral incorporated a compromise amendment giving the municipalities until Jan. 1, 1975, to exempt themselves through the initiative petition process.

The fluoridation law resulted from efforts of Nebraska Dental Assn. officials who declare fluorides are important in preventing tooth decay, especially in children.

Last month fluoridation suffered defeat in all 15 towns where it appeared on the ballot during municipal elections.

State and national dental spokesmen have attributed the decisive defeat to emotionalism, fear and concern about cost.

Dr. C. Gordon Watson of Chicago,

Dental Assn., declared during the recent Nebraska Dental Assn.'s convention, "Someone plants an ounce of fear, and it takes a ton of good data to

Dr. Herbert Seberg of Hastings, chairman of the state dental association's fluoridation committee. has estimated that a fluoridation unit would cost only between $500 to $1,000 per well.

Meanwhile, opponents say opposition is actuated not so much by concern over loss of local control as over the right of the individual to choose his own physician," according to William Holman of Ord, chief spokesman of the Nebraska Committee for Pure Air and Water Inc.

Currently 13 towns in the state are fluoridating their water, some taking this action prior to enactment of the state law. These communities, according to the State Health Department records, are Auburn, Bellevue, Blue Hill, Columbus, Fairbury, Lincoln, Nebraska City, Neligh, Omaha, O'Neill, Rushville, Superior and Utica.

State Health Department statistics reveal that 55 communities in the state have enough natural fluoride in their water and thus are exempt from fluoridating their water.

Eight Lancaster County towns -Panama, Raymond, Roca, Sprague,

- have placed the fluoridation issue on their ballots next Tuesday.

Larger cities in the state, too, will be balloting on the measure, including Grand Island, Hastings, Beatrice, Holdrege, Aurora and David City.

In Saline County, Wilber, Friend. Dorchester, Western, Swanton and Tobias have included the issue on

Other towns where fluoridation will be decided by the voters include:

Several other towns plan to include the fluoridation issue on their ballots in the November general election to beat the January deadline.

CAIRO (AP) — The chances of an Israeli-Syrian disengagement on the Golan Heights are less than 50-50 despite nine days of face-to-face diplomacy by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, American officials said Thursday.

The officials, speaking after Kissinger received a vote of confidence from Saudi Arabia and shuttled to Cairo for talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, said Syria and Israel are barely "in the starting block" toward a settlement.

The two sides are exchanging "complete considerations" but have not agreed on a disengagement boundary, the officials said.

Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon stated Thursday that Israel's latest disengagement proposal to Syria

Farm, Food Price Decline Slows Wholesale Index Rise adjustment of prices following the gradual sector-

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm and food prices declined for the second consecutive month in April, slowing the over-all rise in wholesale prices to its lowest rate in six months, the government said Thursday.

The Labor Department said the wholesale price index rose a seasonally adjusted seven-tenths of 1 per cent in April. Unadjusted the increase was five-tenths of 1 per cent. Though still substantial by normal standards, it was the first time in six months that prices have not risen by more than a full percentage point. Wholesale prices rose an adjusted 1.3 per cent in March and 1.2 per cent in February, following spurts of 3.1 per cent in January, 2.2 per cent in December and 1.8 per cent in November. Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said: "The declines in farm product prices are likely to be reflected in much smaller increases in retail food prices than occurred" over the first three months

He attributed the sharp increase in the industrial commodity component to the lagged by-sector phase-out of price controls.

An adjusted 3 per cent decline in farm and food prices last month was offset by sharp increases in a broad range of industrial commodities for the second consecutive month. Industrial prices, viewed as a more sensitive measure of inflation than food prices, advanced by an adjusted 2.3 per cent in April following an increase of 2.9 per cent in March. Despite the smaller rate of increase last month. over-all wholesale prices were 18.8 per cent above a year ago. Farm and food prices were up 14.7 per cent over the year and industrials up 20.7 per

The wholesale price index stood at 155.3, meaning that it cost $155.30 to buy a variety of wholesale goods that cost $100 in the 1967 base

The government said farm products declined 5.5 per cent in April. Decreases included grains, down 19 per cent; live poultry, off 12.1 per cent; livestock, down 6.7 per cent and eggs off 10.3 per

Washington - John B. Connally, while secretary of the treasury, telephoned the Justice Department repeatedly to express his fear that Jake Jacobsen, his long-time friend, was being unfairly treated in the department's investigation of a Texas saving and loan scandal, according to authoritative sources.

The sources said Connally made two such calls to then Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. The sources said two subsequent calls were made to Richard G. Kleindienst, who succeeded

Mitchell in April 1972. It could not be learned whether the calls to Kleindienst came before or after Connally, former Texas governor, resigned from the Treasury Department in June 1972. Each time, the sources said, Connally's message was the same: that Jacobsen, a former aide to the late President Johnson, had assured him of his innocence in connection with the alleged misapplication of funds and that he feared Jacobsen was the target of a Republican 'vendetta' against Texas

Democrats in general.

After each call, according to the sources, word of Connally's inquiry was relayed from the attorney general's office to Henry E. Petersen, head of the criminal division, who then reviewed the matter with department lawyers in the fraud section who were conducting the investigation

In every case, word was reportedly sent back to the attorney general and through him to Connally that the department believed its evidence of Jacobsen's participation in the misapplication case to be con-

examiners first noted the potential misapplication of funds in the case, said the board had turned the product of a 10-month investigation of the matter over to the Justice Department in January 1972.

Asked about the responses to these inquiries, the official replied, They told us different things at different times. You'll have to ask them.

The savings and loan case apparently is unrelated to a case involving an alleged connection between Republican campaign contributions and the raising by President Nixon, in March 1971, of the government's milk support price, in which Connally Loan Bank Board, one of whose and Jacobsen are also involved.

Washington (UPI) - Two senators and three House members joined Thursday in introducing a resolution to deny all military and economic aid to Turkey if the Turks resume opium production.

Turkey decided in March tol plant a "seed crop" of opium poppies after a two-year total ban on the crop. Turkish officials said they wanted to retain the option of going back to full scale poppy farming and could not store the old seeds any longer.

Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., and Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., cited what they said was a massive drop in U.S. heroin supplies during the Turkish ban. They expressed fear this trend will be reversed if Turkey decides to resume full poppy production this fall.

Washington (UPI) - The Federal Energy Administration acknowledged Thursday that the 4.8 billion standby gasoline rationing coupons the government printed can be used to activate machines that give change for $1 bills.

WASHINGTON - In 1929, Secretary of State Henry Stimson closed down the "Black Chamber" - the State Department's code-breaking office — on the principle that the way to make men and nations trustworthy was to trust them. As he later told aide McGeorge Bundy, "Gentlemen do not read each other's mail.'

Stimson made that remark in 1947, after he had been secretary of war and had encouraged the establishment of a vast American intelligence community. To him, what was fair and necessary in wartime was wrong when nations were striving to construct a peace.

Throughout the cold war, Stimson's words were cited as a quaint peep of moral stiffness by C.I.A. men convinced that fire had to be fought with fire. His words, treated as if they had been spoken in 1929, seemed an anachronism to those charged with ensuring the nation's sur-

When novelists Graham Greene and John Le Carre wrote about the morally debilitating effects of the ends-before-

means attitude of espionage, their books were read for their drama (the means) more than their message (the ends). After all, the spy as jury, judge and executioner found roots in American traditions of justice in the Old West, when some individual sheriffs embodied the entire process of law.

Now, however, in this period of detente, we view the adoption of totalitarian means to combat totalitarian threats as less than wise; as we have come to understand that we cannot overcome our enemies by becoming them, we have stopped romanticizing the professional spy. The time of the thinlipped Hunt and the hot-eyed Liddy is out of joint, for derring-do has changed to derring-don't

Throughout the rise and fall of the romance of American espionage, one technique that permeated the profession was the science of eavesdropping. In the 17th Century, that word was coined to describe secret listeners who stood so close to the outside wall that they were untouched by water falling from the overhanging eaves; in the 20th Century, eavesdropping was made easier by electronics, and to hear each other's conversation became the quintessence of "reading each other's mail."

That willingness to listen in, to put the need of national survival ahead of the restraints of what Stimson considered national gentlemanliness, to penetrate personal privacy in order to preserve national secrecy, was second nature to Richard Nixon. He and his chief foreign affairs lieutenant, both children of the cold war, were determined to end the cold war, and a willingness to eavesdrop came with the job.

Step One, using the F.B.I. the President and his men — sure of the necessity of such action to protect the national interest - began to eavesdrop on the men in the press and in the White House to find the sources of leaks.

Step Two, when the F.B.I. appeared squeamish, was to create a "special investigations unit" in Room 16 of the Executive Office Building, which was willing to eavesdrop, or worse, in order to plug the leaks.

Step Three down the eavesdropping road was the transfer of the ability to eavesdrop for avowedly security purposes over to political campaign purposes, as his sensitivity to the illegality of wiretaps. Even at that time, when the meaning of the events of the previous year were being driven into the Oval Office, the habit of eavesdropping was so ingrained that it was natural for John Ehrlichman to suggest that he make a recording of his confrontation with John Mitchell. As the transcripts show, the President told him to go ahead and "gear up" for electronic eavesdropping, adding that he personally did not want to listen to the tape.

The irony is so exquisite as to be unbearable: here was Ehrlichman suggesting that he eavesdrop on the man accused of authorizing the Watergate eavesdropping, unaware that his own conversation planning to bug the bugger was being bugged.

That is the triple dead heat of eavesdropping, the royal flush or unassisted triple play, the ultimate hat trick - a plot twist that would have made E. Phillips Oppenheim blush before using.

The President's willingness to go along with the indiscriminate eavesdropping on all his advisers and visitors should not surprise us, seen as the final, massive dose of the poison he had been sipping steadily for years. It was not wrong, he felt, because it would be used for the right purposes - for History, for Truth. I am not among those who think the President guilty of an impeachable high crime. An addiction to eavesdropping was his grievous fault, and grievously hath he already suffered for it. The man who was ready to eavesdrop to protect the confidentiality of his office was, in Hamlet's words, "hoist with his own petard" - a petard is a bomb, and this one has blown presidential confidentiality sky-high.

Because Nixon would read everyone else's mail, we are now forced to read his own, hardly an edifying activity, and in so doing we see why Henry Stimson was right.

Now, More Than Ever

The desperate gamble to survive that President Nixon took in releasing the transcripts with the claim that he was "telling all" worked at first.

By its sheer bulk, the mass of newlyreleased evidence heartened his supporters and frustrated his detractors. The release of the transcripts enabled him to achieve a partisan split in the House Judiciary Committee, with all but one of the Republican members voting against a letter telling the President he was not in compliance with the committee's subpoena.

But the strategy is falling apart, transcript by transcript. People have now read them.

The glaring omissions in the edited transcripts of presidential conversations about Watergate generated a new cry for more conclusive evidence from Republicans and Democrats alike. What was not omitted — a sordid record of false image-making and sleazy cooked-up schemes to avoid telling the truth — even sickened many of the most resolute Nixon backers. Sadly enough, Nebraska Senators Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska are numbered among those few who have not expressed outrage over what the transcripts reveal about the President and his advisors, even apart from the question of possible criminal activity.

Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the Senate minority leader, and Robert Dole of Kansas, a former Republican National Chairman, are but two staunch administration supporters who have been moved to comment on the shabbiness of the moral tone in the White House revealed by the media and conservative spokesmen for generations, such as the Chicago Tribune and the Omaha World-Herald, have asked that the President go. With each day, Vice President Ford appears to be growing more and more appalled at what went on in the Oval Office and he is sounding more and more like the kind of president this nation needs at this critical point.

New York Times columnist James Reston this week drew a parallel between the careers of Nixon and West German Chancellor Willy Brandt. Both were faced with corruption in their administrations and both publicly acknowledged that it was their responsibility. But Brandt accepted the responsibility by resigning from office to let the people and the parliament decide the issue and in so doing, he showed "class," Reston said. Reston didn't have to say any more.

The Star many months ago joined a number of newspapers across the nation which publicly stated their conviction that President Nixon should resign for the good of the country.

We feel even more strongly now that President Nixon should go, by resignation if he wants to spare the country an ordeal or by impeachment should the Congress decide he has breached the public trust. The grounds are surely there.

The United States should not suffer a law-breaking President - and evidence may prove that he is — and the nation should not have to live the next two years under a leader who has contempt for and abuses its institutions and political processes and who can't approach the moral standard he himself defined for the

> By ERNEST CHAMBERS Senator, Dist. 11

Omaha, Nebr. The following account is designed to place in perspective the events which occurred during the Judiciary Committee meeting Monday, May

The Judiciary Committee of which I am a member, denied me the chairmanship of a subcommittee to study the legal profession during the interim. Besides drafting LR132, which authorized the study, I arranged its referral to the Judiciary Committee after detailed discussions with Chairman Luedtke.

Senator Luedtke did not wish to be a part of the study, so I drafted the resolution to set up a subcommittee within the Judiciary; and it was agreed that I would be chairman. Senator Luedtke authorized Walt Radcliffe, a paid staff member, to work with me on funding and other aspects of the study. Relying on our agreement, I drafted a memo outlining my plans, and it was circulated among lawyers throughout the state. I made tentative contacts with lawyers, judges, law students, the dean of Creighton Law College, various law professors and other interested parties.

☆ ☆ ☆ At my request, UNL Law Professor Gradwohl spoke with some UNL psychologists to obtain assistance in preparing a survey questionaire for the study. Additionally, I began laying groundwork for the establishment of an advisory committee to the subcommittee whose membership would be drawn from all areas of the legal profession, including the Bar Association. It is not unusual to trust another senator and act on his word. I even notified the Creighton Law dean that I would not enroll in summer school because this interim study would take all my time. He agreed. I have been damaged in several ways by the inexcusable action of the Judiciary Committee.

The Nebraska Bar Association has been strongly opposed to LR 132 from the beginning. They have tried a number of questionable tactics to obtain its defeat. Pressure was applied on the Reference Committee to kill it. The executive director of the NBA announced on March 3, that the bar is opposed. Governor Exon was prevailed upon to publicly denounce me and the study at the Lincoln Law Day conference (March 28, 1974). Approaches were made to David Tews, powerful lobbyist, to spearhead opposition. A delegation from the Lincoln Bar trekked to Omaha to exert pressure on Senator Fellman (member of the Judiciary) to oppose my chairmanship, which he did. 公 公 公

As a result of this concerted effort by the Nebraska Bar Association, I was denied chairmanship of a subcommittee authorized by my own resolution. It is difficult to comprehend the bar's inordinate fear of me. Why their extreme defensiveness? What do they fear will be disclosed by a study? The primary question is whether adequate legal services are being delivered to the public.

Not all lawyers fear the shaking loose of skeletons. The Nebraska Association of Trial Attorneys agreed with LR132 and offered me support in writing. Omaha Attorney (and City Councilman) John Miller endorsed the effort. United States District Judge Van Pelt agreed even with my position on elimination of the bar exam. Various other judges have agreed to give advice and suggestions. A number of law professors and students have offered assistance. All of these people assumed I was to be chairman and addressed themselves to me, not to the chairman of the Judiciary Committee. They had no objection to me as chairman.

Though all senators were aware of my interests and efforts along these lines (including my meeting with the Supreme Court judges and their adoption of Rule 10 embodying my proposals), none offered to help organize this study or serve on the Advisory Committee. No senator expressed opposition to my chairmanship. No lawyer in the Legislature possessed the temerity even to suggest a study like the one I have envisioned and done so much

For some reason, the Judiciary Committee is very beholden to the NBA — or perhaps too many of the members are seeking re-election. At any rate, the committee folded, and violated a gentleman's agreement.

The NBA won a pyrrhic victory by means of their machinations with some members of the Judiciary Committee. Can they afford the ultimate costs? More than anything else, this episode shows the crying need for the study proposed in LR 132. The way the Judiciary Committee melted under pressure from the NBA demonstrates why I must chair the subcommittee. No one has strings on me; I am not trying to feather a law-practice nest upon leaving the Legislature. I fear nothing and

The subterfuge of the NBA was not illegal, but its ethical quality is as questionable as the lawyer activity connected with Watergate. More and more, the legal profession is gaining the unsavory reputation for deviousness, dishonesty and lack of integrity. The attitude of the Judiciary Committee in knuckling under the NBA is: THE PUBLIC BE DAMNED.

After this wrenching, tearing episode involving betrayal of trust and violation of promises, the Judiciary Committee can never be the same. Its former effectiveness has been successfully destroyed.

Lee Johnson

Exeter, Neb.

I have known Lee Johnson, candidate for Lancaster County commissioner, for many years and know that the voters of the Third District are fortunate to have a candidate of his caliber as a choice in the upcoming election. Lee Johnson will be responsible to the wishes of all the citizens and not a select few. He is not afraid to take a stand for what he believes in.

Those of us who know him realize that he would be a county commissioner of whom the citizens will be proud, especially in this day of mistrust of public officials.

Third District Candidate

Lincoln, Neb. Next week's primary election for county commissioner will give the residents of Lincoln and Lancaster County an opportunity to significantly contribute to making county government more effective and responsive to its citizenry. This is especially true in the race in the Third District where Bruce Hamilton is one of the candidates. Bruce Hamilton is strongly committed to working for consolidation of county and city government and feels the best way this can be done is to strengthen county government so as to lay the groundwork for a successful merger. PAM IHRIE

Marge Schlitt

Lincoln, Neb. Those of us in the education community should be careful to elect representatives who have shown strong dedication to public education. One such candidate this year is Marge Schlitt, who is running for the Unicameral. The mother of four children, Marge is a teacher aide at Prescott School. In her public statements, she has stressed the need for improving state funding of schools. She is also concerned about special education programs for children with particular needs - the mentally retarded, emotionally disturbed and gifted. We should give such intelligent women a chance to help shape the educational policies of Nebraska.

Paying More Than Share

As a home-owner and taxpayer, I am very concerned about a practice of the present county assessor's administration, several instances of which I have seen.

When one purchases a home, the assessed value is raised according to the sale price. However, other homes in the immediate neighborhood are not adjusted accordingly, so the person who buys the house is paying more than others, which is un-

I want to know how the present county assessor can get away with this practice. Nearly 100 home-owners to whom this has happened have filed suit. However, I am not aware of any of these suits coming to trial.

I challenge the present assessor to publicly defend the above practice and show why his record warrants re-election. I also challenge other candidates to state publicly what they will do to provide relief to those who pay more than their fair share

The Fourth Child

Lincoln, Neb. I have four children. Three of them sparkle and the fourth is a cross to bear. We have tried everything. It is our conclusion that the fourth is going to take all of our patience, all our love and help. We are not turning against her, because we are convinced she cannot help it. It would be the worst thing we could do and would drive her right into greater tragedies and misery.

This is the way with society. Instead of refusing help and understanding, instead of looking down on and sneering, instead of trying to hide and ignore the fourth child, society should give every "fourth child" more compassion, more love, more aid because all the punishment in the world won't help. We must continually look for the root cause.

DETERMINED TO HELP

Wilderness Park Unique

Lincoln, Neb. During a time when we need land for recreation purposes and places for families to spend time, it is wrong to destroy a park, Wilderness Park, for the sake of building a better highway system in order to benefit a few business people. Wilderness Park is a unique place and very enjoyable to use, since it is quiet and rustic. It provides a valuable resource for our community.

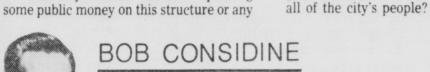

There are always alternatives to building roads, but once a natural habitat is destroyed or changed, there is no alternative nor can it be duplicated in another setting

DO NOT DESTROY WILDERNESS PARK. It is an asset to Lancaster County. The park's existence is more than just meeting social needs. It is a commitment to a community to preserve that community and not to answer only to the needs of business in the name of economic development.

Nixon And White House Aides Struggled With Justice System

EDITOR'S NOTE - "It was the system that has brought the facts to light and that will bring those guilty to justice," President Nixon said about Watergate on April 30, 1973. "A system that in this case has included a determined grand jury, honest prosecutors, a courageous judge, John Sirica, and a vigorous free press." Here in the third of a five-part series is how the Watergate transcripts show President Nixon and his advisers tried to use the justice system.

The transcripts show at least one other instance in which Nixon spoke of Petersen's comments to Haldeman. The comments were about grand jury testimony by Frederick C. LaRue, a campaign committee official, involving Herbert W. Kalmbach, the President's former personal attorney, and about statements made to the prosecutors by John Dean involving Haldeman.

Nixon told Haldeman: "Be sure that Kalmbach is at least aware of this, that LaRue has talked very freely.

At another point, the transcripts show that Nixon suggested to Haldeman that Ehrlichman brief White House aide Gordon C. Strachan before his grand jury appearance about allegations made by others and that Nixon suggested to Ehrlichman in a telephone call that former White House aide Charles W. Colson be advised in advance of incriminating

During the final Nixon-Petersen conversation in the transcripts, recorded April 21 in the Oval Office, Petersen, by now the assistant attorney general in charge of Watergate. assured Nixon: "We have no mandate to investigate the President.

"If there's one thing you have got to do," Nixon declared moments later, "you have got to maintain the President out of this. I have got things to do for this country, and I'm not going to have -

On April 14, Nixon told Ehrlichman to report to Kleindienst instead of to Earl J. Silbert, chief assistant U.S. attorney for the District of Columbia, because Dean had told Ehrlichman that Silbert would walk you right into the grand

"The better out," Ehrlichman reported Dean as saying, "would be to go to Kleindienst who will probably step aside and refer you to Dean. Dean would in turn say to Henry Petersen, 'They have done this little investigation over at the White House . .

Petersen would in turn inform Silbert who would say, 'I've got more than I can handle here now. We'll wait and interview that guy later.'

There is evidence, as well, in the transcripts that the White House had complete knowledge of FBI activities during the initial Watergate investigation.

Dean, on March 21: "There is no doubt that I was totally aware of what the Bureau was doing at all times.'

The transcripts show the President intended to use the U.S. system of justice to punish his political enemies at the first opportunity.

Nixon on Sept. 15, 1972: "I want the most comprehensive notes on all those who tried to do us in . . . We have not used the power in this first four years, as you know. We have never used it. We have not used the Bureau and we have not used the Justice Department, but things are going to change now . .

New Trial Refused By Court

... In Rape Case

By The Associated Press

A divided Nebraska Supreme Court ruled 5-2 Thursday that when new evidence is offered to support a motion for a new trial, it must be strong enough to indicate a different verdict would likely result.

In a case involving the rape of a 15-year-old girl, the court also ruled the evidence would be new only if the defense had no access to it during lower court proceedings.

The defendant, Gary Seger, was convicted in Holt County District Court of rape in December, 1972. His attorney asked the high court to grant a new trial because of new evidence in the form of a polygraph test taken by the alleged victim, and because the initial case had not gone to trial within six months, as required by

In the majority opinion, Chief Justice Paul White said the record indicated the polygraph test was available during lower court proceedings, but that Seger's attorney did not ask for it, although he knew it existed.

The court further ruled that any error on which a new trial could be based must be presented in a motion to the lower court before it can be considered by the Supreme Court. On that basis, the court ruled, it could not consider an appeal based on Seger's contention that he had not gone to trial within six months.

Justice Lawrence M. Clinton dissented, saying Seger's counsel failed to preserve the right of appeal on the basis of the time element involved.

Clinton wrote, "The record clearly demonstrates that such failure resulted wholly from the mistake of the prosecutor," and consequent misinformation given the court.

Clinton said there had been a clear violation of the 6th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and that he would vacate the conviction and direct absolute discharge of Seger. Justice Hale McCown joined in the dissent.

In other action the high court:

—Upheld the first degree murder conviction of William Bland, sentenced to life imprisonment for the robbery-slaying of John R. Wisotzkey of Omaha. The appeal contended there was no evidence that Bland intended to rob the victim; but the court held there was evidence that he was involved in the assault with persons who did rob Wisotzkey.

—Reversed and remanded the forgery conviction, from Box Butte County District Court, of Eddie Addison. The court held a conviction cannot be sustained without proof of forgery.

—Reversed and remanded a Saunders County District Court decision involving payment on notes by John F. Kennedy College to Grant G. Fieldler.

—Affirmed a Douglas County District Court award of $19,230.70 to Elena Siciunas for injuries she sustained as a passenger in a vehicle operated by the Checker Cab Co. Inc., of Omaha.

Quilted Memories

Editor's Note: This is a letter "I wrote to my mother when she was 87 years old," explains Write On author, Norma Woodward

By NORMA WOODWARD HAIST

Dear Mother.

I'm sitting here looking at a pink quilt on my bed that you pieced and quilted for me. It is full of little squares of your life. All of the squares aren't from material I remember, but many bring poignant memories.

One is print from a dress you must have made for yourself, because I remember it as an apron you wore, and I know you made everyday aprons from the good parts of worn-out dresses. I can recall leaning against you and asking if you would please have another baby so I would have someone to play with. Since I was number seven, I'm sure you didn't need another baby, but I was too young to realize that.

I see bits of dresses you made for me. One had yellow flowers and I especially liked the buttons I chose for it — they were in the shape of pieces of fruit. One brings back memories of me in the third grade and a teacher I

Another is blue and white striped, and I wanted it made with a "dirndle" skirt, which was in fashion then. Since I had a mother who could sew, I could have all the newest styles in school dresses.

One print is red and white with blue stars and anchors on it. My friend and I wanted to make blouses and shorts alike one summer and we chose that material. You didn't approve because we ordered it from an inexpensive mail-order house and you said it would be cheap and sleazy. It was.

Then there are the prints from the countless dresses you made for our three cousins because our aunt, with her nine children, didn't have time to sew. Other prints must have come from dresses you made for your many grandaughters.

There is a piece in aqua blue with tiny gray kittens on it, a maternity dress I made myself when we were expecting our first dear little girl who did not live. There is a pink segment with brown keys on it which I made for me when one of our

On my way home I passed the birthday party home. The girls overpowered me, with my thin little arms pulled by their stronger ones. There was little resistance! There I was at the party with the girls and their gifts. We had small chairs to sit on and the games were fun.

I almost forgot the gift I should have had. The aunt came along with a pitcher of cocoa and cookies. I heard her ask each little girl what she had brought in

3 Baby Bears Romp At Zoo

By LINDA OLIG Star Staff Writer Hi! I'm Chopper, the baby

black bear. My sisters and I want to welcome you to another fun season at the Lincoln Children's We are North American black bears - and are a mere three months old. We can't remember

Conzoosations

ever not being in Lincoln, for we came here soon after our birth. From the moment a big, silver bird that flew through the clouds brought us to your city, until just a week or so ago, we lived at the home of Zoo Director and Mrs.

Alan Bietz. And we just have to admit that we were a bit didscombobulated when we first were put in our summer home, Bear Island, here at the zoo.

All we did the first few days was cry. But now we have adjusted to our new surroundings and spend most of our time chasing each other around our island, playing tag, entertaining ourselves with mock battles, getting stuck in the tree and splashing in the water generally hamming it up for our visitors who egg us on by tossing us an animal cracker or two.

Mmmm! We just love animal crackers. In fact, we're such hungry little critters that we each. But we are sure to grow, would eat just about anything, since the average North anytime, all the time.

Our relatives who live out of captivity eat just about anything, too. They just love vegetation shoots and tubers. But, connoisseurs of round diets as they are, they also feast on insects, honey and berries.

Unfortunately, with the encroachment of civilization into trans-Atlantic travel. Next their stomping grounds, our summer people visiting a zoo aunts and uncles and cousins often are forced to seek food from dumps and campsites. For this, they are blamed for being

"ferocious killers." That they are not, although they can do battle if they are provoked or especially hungry.

Here, we still are on a baby formula of artificial, mother's replacement milk, whipped cream and baby cereal. But soon we will move on to solid food canned and dry dog food. vegetables, fruit, some fish and raw eggs to keep our fur smooth and shiny.

While man has pestered our fellow North American black bears ever since his arrival to our stomping grounds — ranging from Florida to Canada - considering our meat some kind of delicacy, using our pelts for rugs in their dens (oh, my, what a slander to us!) and having sport scaring us into trees, we have pulled an equally dirty trick on

You see, there has been considerable controversy stirred up surrounding the question of our so-called hibernation. Man now is not sure whether we truly hibernate, a time when our body metabolism reaches an all-time low, or we just sleep out the winter. And, we'll never tell!

Being just babies still, we weigh only about 20 pounds American black bear tips the scales at a whopping 300 pounds. By summer's end, we are expected to have grown to about 75 pounds

Visitors to the zoo this summer had better give my sisters and me a good, hard look, because our future plans include somewhere in Europe will be looking at fine specimens of the North American Black bears -

Plan To House Indians Draws Continued Opposition

Asking for police protection and assurances that "nothing would happen" better than half of the Arnold Heights residents at a town hall meeting Thursday night voiced opposition to allowing Indian people coming to Lincoln for the Wounded Knee trials to use an abandoned barracks for housing.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf told the group the barracks provided by Bud Irons would be used to house only those who come as friends or supporters for those on trial and not the defendants

The mayor said other sites had been considered but were unacceptable because of lack of space or inadequate sanitary facilities.

Forecast For Friday

Sagittarius wants to be frank, natural, unencumbered but often works at cross-purposes, creating tangled webs, complications and building castles on pretense. The Sagittarian self-image can be the exact opposite of what is happening outside, in the real world, in the material areas where people abide by their senses and not by what could or should be the case. Sagittarians seem always to have the most noble of motives — but there is a but and the moral question of ends justifying the means seems constantly to haunt them. Despite all, Sagittarius can be the most spiritual sign, and here is communication, publishing and the passing on of "the message."

Dismissal Of City Jail Suit Asked

Star Staff Writer

A request was made in U.S. District Court Thursday to disprisoners were held for about 72 hours in a nine foot by nine foot bell in the Lincoln City Jail.

The written request was made by Police Chief Joseph Carroll and Inspector Robert Meyers on the grounds the suit does not state a claim under which relief can be granted.

A number of other requests were made by Carroll and Meyers. However, the requests, or motions, and a memorandum in support of the motions do not appear to challenge the fact of the incident.

"In this situation, the hardships imposed upon the plaintiffs were a direct result of their violation of jail complex rules and the threat to internal security that the violations

Carroll, Iowa (UPI) - There is an "outside chance" an experimental railroad passenger service route will be established across Iowa from Chicago to the West Coast this year, the chairman of the Western Association of Railroad Passengers (WARP) said Wednesday.

W. D. Keith went to Washington recently to discuss the possibility with Amtrak and Transportation Dept. officials.

The final decision on a 1974 experimental route will be made within the next four to six weeks by Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegear, Keith said.

Keith said both Transportation and Amtrak officials were impressed with the Chicago-West Coast presentation. He said if the 1974 route does not go through, there is an "excellent" chance of getting a 1975 experimental route.

States crossed in the route proposal are Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon, Utah, Nevada and California. The project already has been endorsed by Idaho Gov Cecil D. Andrus, Keith said.

Surgicenter One-Day Process

Getting a cyst removed or having a broken nose fixed at Lincoln General Hospital won't require a costly overnight stay any more.

Hospital Administrator W. Robert Brungard announced the opening Thursday of the Surgicenter, a new concept for one-day surgery on an out-patient

The Surgicenter can accommodate eight adult and pediatric patients who have elective surgery that allows dismissal within a 10-hour period and requires minimal follow-up.

Candidates are carefully screened for referral to the Surgicenter, where surgical procedures may include, for example, minor bone work, biopsies, abortions, skin lesions, drainages, circumcisions, vasectomies, or dental work (such as impacted extractions).

The surgery itself will be performed in the regular surgical area of the hospital, but patients will be admitted and dismissed within the Surgicenter. Telephone follow-up is done by Surgicenter personnel the day after a patient's dismissal. Patients also have access to the emergency room number, where they may consult with a physician or nurse or both on direct call. The Surgicenter is open Wednesday through Saturday, from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Brungard pointed out that Surgicenter patients are not charged for a room.

Refurbishing and construction of the in-hospital Surgicenter cost approximately $6,000, according to Brungard. He said patient savings will also occur in reduction of hospital operating costs and in less time lost from patients' daily routines and work schedules.

The Surgicenter concept was initially researched by the Community Advisory Council, a task force for the hospital board of trustees and administration.

Council representatives visited existing surgicenters throughout the U.S. before adopting plans to meet the needs at Lincoln General.

Lincoln General Wants 10% Hike

By DICK HOLMAN

Star Staff Writer Effective June 10, patients at Lincoln General Hospital will pay an average of 10 cents more on every dollar currently charged for hospital care, unless the City Council denies proposed rate hikes.

The Lincoln General Hospital and Lincoln Hospital Assn. Board of Trustees at a special meeting Thursday approved 6-0 a recommendation to increase overall charges by 10%.

A quorum is six board members. Chairman Walter E. Nolte said other trustees unable to attend the meeting indicated their approval, though that was not binding on the vote.

The board's finance committee had made a similar recommendation, effective June 1, but City Atty. Dick Wood advised that the panel's decision was invalid, since it was made at an unpublicized, non-public meeting without full board approval.

They are sharing the warm winds of a daily philosophy, said Mrs. Gridley.

"I never dreamed a school would pick this up," said Orville Kelly, 43-year-old former newspaperman from Burlington. Iowa. Kelly learned a year ago he has lymphoma, a cancer of the lymph glands. His life is measured in months.

The verdict swept the father of four into spasms of black depression.

But last winter Kelly decided that his remaining days were too precious to be spent grieving. He ultimately formed Make Today Count (MTC), an organization for the terminally ill and their

MTC's philosophy is for members to speak openly of their fate, to verbalize or even laugh at their mortality. Kelly believes this common sharing helps them to more easily accept dying. He says MTC chapters have sprung up in several states.

But Mrs. Gridley's 25 students saw something else in MTC.

"My class asked how they could be leaders," she said Wednesday. "I remembered reading about MTC chapters and I thought it was a good philosophy for the kids to have.

There is a difference. The youngsters' MTC club is to help the living

Mrs. Gridley, 52, a 13-year teaching veteran, had surgery for cancer last

"I told my students that although we don't all have terminal cancer, all our lives are terminal," she said. "We're just living for the day and we should make every day count.

She said the class began the project by surreptitiously placing MTC signs everywhere, on walls, in restrooms, but no one else in the school knew what they meant or who was doing it.

The eighth-graders fashioned paper MTC badges for everyone. "Some kids were wearing those badges and didn't even know what they meant." Mrs. Gridley said. Eventually the signs were explained.

"I stressed to the students that we should live each day to the fullest," she said. "We haven't had fantastic results. but the idea is spreading. Many of the children may not make the most of their lives now, but maybe in later years. And that's what you measure.

She said the kindergarten class "made a bulletin board of phrases of things we can do to make today count, like 'Smile at a Policeman

The students also hope to let the community know about their MTC club, she said, and they've sent club membership applications to President Nixon and other government officials.

Part of the application reads: "We think you are important, and because we think you are important we think each day in your life is important . . . Each day ask yourself: Am I important? If the answer is yes, wear your MTC badge and make today count.

Kelly said he's delighted with the idea.

Omaha (AP) - It's now the League of Women Voters plus three. The three new male members are Cecil Johnson, Dr. Richard Tobin and Sheldon Barnett. They joined the national organization's Omaha chapter Wednesday, about 24 hours after the national convention voted to allow male membership. Each of the men is married to a member of long standing.

The first male member of the local chapter was Johnson, 69, an attorney who is on the board of the Omaha Public Power District.

Mrs. Johnson, a former president of the league, said, 'He just told me at breakfast Wednesday that he'd like to be the first male member in Omaha.

Kearney (AP) - The Nebraska Real Estate Commission revoked a broker's license and gave another broker a 'severe censure' Thursday.

Separate hearings were held in Kearney in both cases. The commission revoked the license of Ronald Bycroft of Gibbon. The action followed a recent Federal Court conviction of Bycroft on charges of interstate transportation of stolen securities.

Bycroft is a former Biggon and Elm Creek banker.

The commission censured Bill Heinzman of Heinzman Real Estate in Kearney

Arbitrator's IBP Report Is Released

Dakota City (AP) - A federal arbitrator's final report covering bargaining unit employes at Iowa Beef Processors Inc. Dakota City complex was made public Thursday.

The report outlined pay rates over a three-year period retro-active to Jan. 23, 1974, said Arden Walker, vice president of industrial relations for IBP.

He said the arbitrator's decision provides for hourly increases in stages starting at a base of $3.80 in slaughter and $3.19 in processing.

The decision also included a full cost-of-living clause based on the consumer price index with a two per cent deduction in the first year of the contract, said

He said both company and Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America agreed to arbitration proceedings Jan. 19.

Negotiations on a contract at IBP's Dakota City facility began in June 1972 to replace the existing work agreement which expired April 13, 1973.

An extension on the old contract was agreed upon through July 15, 1973. Following that date, the Dakota City complex underwent 27 weeks of work

The firm is now evaluating the economic impact of the settlement, said Walker.

Stock Mart Moves Up Sharply

New York (AP) - The stock market moved sharply higher Thursday but brokers said the volume was too light for the rally to be significant.

The Dow Jones industrial average leaped 14.78 points to 865.77 and gainers led losers 788 to 581 among the 1,760 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Volume was only 14.71 million shares.

Among other popularlywatched averages, the broadbased NYSE index rose .56 to 49.09, and the American Stock Exchange's market value index added .96 during the day to close

Brokers said the groundwork for the rally was laid by the steady, firm tone of the market during the past few sessions which has allowed investors to feed each others confidence.

Some light buying was also triggered by the Labor Department's report that the April wholesale price index, a major factor in figuring the cost of living and inflation, showed its smallest monthly rise since last October.

Combustion Engineering, the Big Board's most actively traded stock, recovered 8 of the 28 points is lost Wednesday to close at 54½. The stock suffered drastic losses after a report that the company had signed some financially risky contracts to build nuclear power plants.

Westinghouse Electric was the second volume leader, off 1/8 to 16½, followed by Citicorp, First National City Bank's parent company, down 1/2 to 26 with a 62,800-share block traded at 385/8. Con Edison rose 1/2 to 26 and IT&T rose 3/4 to 203/4 after Chairman Harold Geneen told stockholders at the annual meeting to expect record earnings out of the company this

CTU Chief Feels Growth Will Continue

Chicago — Central Telephone and Utilities Corp. believes it can maintain earnings growth in the 8 to 10% range in 1974, Chicago analyists were told Thursday.

Noting a strong-first quarter earnings performance, Robert P. Reuss, president and chief executive officer, said "there is nothing in the picture at the present time that would cause us to lower out sights." He appeared before the Public Utility Securities Club of Chicago.

The diversified holding company reported 1973 earnings of $1.91 per average common share, up 11.7% over $1.71 in 1972. Net income climbed 13.6% to $36.3 million on revenues of $304 million.

Last week, CTU reported first quarter primary earnings were 56 cents per average common share. They were 49 cents in the same period in 1973. Net income rose 14.7% to $10.7 million on an 11% increase in operating revenues.

Reuss said while energy conservation held down firstquarter gas and electric results. telephone revenues were 15% ahead of the comparable 1973 quarter.

Among the reasons cited by the CTU president for viewing 1974 as "another good year" were demand for services continuing at "satisfactory" levels, below-average unemployment in the company's major service areas, and their lack of dependence on the auto in-

Reuss said the company expects to generate 58% or more of its 1974 construction money needs internally.

He added that higher labor costs in new wage settlements will add to operating expenses, but indicated it is too early to gauge the full impact.

Hog Prices Continue

Omaha (AP) - The current decline in hog prices moved into its third consecutive day in Omaha Thursday as continued liberal movement at the terminal markets and in the country continued unabated.

Butchers ruled largely 25-50 cents lower. Sow trading was very uneven. While some lighter weights were only 25-50 cents down, most of the supply dropped 50-1.00 with some heavies off as much as 1.25.

Pork prices at wholesale continued to trend higher, indicating that the retail movement may be improving. But liberal marketings more than offset the bullish dressed trade. Pork butchering under federal inspection during the first four days of the week approached the 1.3 million head mark and ran substantially above the comparable period a week and a year ago. Adding to the pressure has been the weight of hogs moving to market. At Omaha this week, average weights of barrows and gilts ran consistently around the 250 lb. mark, heaviest in years.

Trade on dressed beef at wholesale levels continued to hold up well, but a meager showing of fed steers and heifers at Omaha moved on a weaker basis. Cows, making up most of the fresh supply, sold fully steady and bulls weakened. Sheep and lamb arrivals were less than 100 head and trade on all classes was nominal. OMAHA

Equity is the name of the game and all three Lancaster County assessor candidates agree that equity in property values must be maintained but offer varying views on how this goal is to be achieved.

Incumbent Fritz Meyer, who has been associated with the assessor's office for 23 years, contends that maintaining equity "hinges on the amount of money the County Board is willing to spend to achieve this goal."

Noting that there are some inequities in valuations due to inflationary factors since the reappraisal was completed in 1970, Meyer said there are, in his opinion, two approaches to updating the reappraisal in order to equalize where inequities may

GARDEN-CHAPEL MAUSOLEUM

Why a Garden-Chapel Mausoleum?

Since first introducing to families in Nebraska and western Iowa the concept of garden mausoleum interment, many have shown a preference for the peace of mind that comes from knowing their departed loved ones will rest securely in the permanent protection of clean, dry chambers, or crypts, as if sleeping in the confines of an immaculately kept room. To fulfill the requirements of families preferring mausoleum interment as a means of honoring departed loved ones, Lincoln Memorial Park is now préparing to expand its present garden mausoleum complex and provide families with the choice that is offered by a garden-chapel mausoleum.

Is mausoleum entombment more expensive?

Taking into consideration the savings involved in not having to buy cemetery lots, interment vaults or monuments and the elimination of such other expenses as grave preparation, the cost of mausoleum entombment compares favorably with that of ground burial - particularly now, while pre-construction discounts are available.

Can I exchange property I own at Lincoln Memorial Park for mausoleum crypts?

Yes. Where present property owners wish to exchange their lots and bronze memorials for mausoleum crypts, arrangements can be made for an equitable exchange. Many families have been taking advantage of this opportunity.

May a loved one interred elsewhere be moved to the mausoleum?

Yes. It is being done, both by families whose departed loved ones have been interred at Lincoln Memorial Park and at other cemeteries.

Is provision made for perpetual care?

Yes. Perpetual Care Funds at Lincoln Memorial Park have and are being enlarged to provide for maintenance of the Garden-Chapel Mausoleum forever.

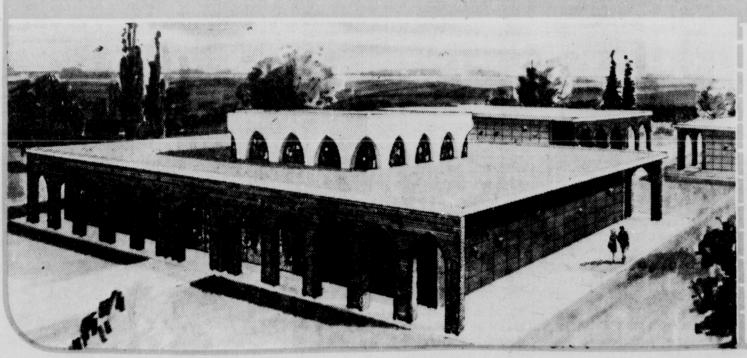

Why make plans now?

By reserving space for your family in our Garden-Chapel Mausoleum now, you can select from choice locations - take advantage of special pre-construction discounts-and, be spared the mental anguish and expense of this inevitable obligation at time of need. Monthly terms are available at no interest.

Odds Against Making Open Field

There are only 29 golfers assured of getting to the first tee of the West Course of the Winged Foot Golf Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y., June 13 for the 74th U.S. Open championship. They're totally exempt from both local and sectional qualifying.

The rest of the more than 4,000 entrants, except for 64 who are exempt for various reasons from local qualifying, will have to qualify for the sectional round in 36-holes of play at 56 sites around the nation.

Out of 3,924 in local qualifying only 536 will advance and then only 121 of 600 will make it to Winged Foot.

One of the local qualifying sites is the Lincoln Country Club where a field of 30, including 18 professionals, will bid for just four spots and the right to advance to sectional play June 3 or 4. Competition here will be on May

Both the local and sectional qualifying rounds will be over a 36-hole route, all on the same day.

Totally exempt players are headed by John Miller, last year's champion who won by a single shot after he shot a record 63 on the final round at Oakmont Country

Open champions since 1969, Orville Moody, Tony Jacklin, Lee Trevino and Jack Nicklaus also are assured of a spot in the field at Winged Foot.

Reward for finishing among the low 15 in last year's Open is a spot in the field of 150. These include Arnold Palmer, who is having his problems getting the ball in the hole these days.

Hall Of Fame Sellout

A crowd of 600 football enthusiasts from around the state will jam the dining hall of the Omaha Hilton tonight for the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame banquet.

Five former greats of the sport will be inducted, including Pat Fischer, tri-captain of the 1960 Cornhuskers. That was back when players had to play both offense and

Fischer was the man who returned a punt 61 yards to set up the winning touchdown as Nebraska ended Oklahoma's unbeaten string of conference victories at 74

Against Texas in 1960, he scored both touchdowns and passed for a two-point conversion in the 14-13 upset of the Longhorns at Austin.

Fischer went on to become an all-pro defensive back in the NFL with the St. Louis Cardinals and continues to be one of the league's premier players with the Washington Redskins.

While at Nebraska, he rushed for 859 yards, had 252 yards passing, 87 yards in pass receptions, 550 on punt returns and 796 on kickoff returns.

Lawrence Ely, a three-year starter at center for D. X. Bible's teams of 1930, 1931, and 1932, led vote getters in Hall of Fame ballotting this year to become one of two "oldtimers" to be selected.

Ely was All-Big Six center in his last two seasons and became Nebraska's seventh All-American by earning concensus honors in 1932.

The other oldtimer to be picked was the late George Flippin, a tackle and halfback for the Huskers from 1891 to 1894. Flippin, who died in 1929, was a practicing physician at Stromsburg.

Two others to be inducted tonight are stars of state colleges. They are Bill Englehardt, tailback of the Omaha Indians in the mid-1950s, and Randy Rasmussen, offensive tackle and guard for Kearney State from 1964-1967

While playing for Omaha, Englehardt had a total offense figure of 3,568 yards and led his team to a 30-5-1 record. Rasmussen still is active as a regular lineman for the New York Jets.

(NSAA) has received affirmative votes from administrators at Lincoln's five high schools in support of a proposed state high school football

By RANDY YORK

Capital City administrators Thursday indicated they voted for the playoff on the NSAA referendum, which requires a 60% affirmative vote to pass.

Each principal at Lincoln's four public high schools - East's Jim Huge, Lincoln High's Bill

Bogar, Northeast's Harold Dietrich and Southeast's Wesley Lauterbach - cast his school's vote on the recommendation of the athletic director.

Pius X principal John Strope collaborated with superintendent Ivan Vap to vote for the playoff, which would go into effect in 1975 if

The NSAA deadline for ballots is Friday. But NSAA executive secretary Les Chamberlin acknowledged that some schools have received permission to cast votes next week "after they have had an opportunity to meet with their school boards.'

Lincoln Principals Vote For Football Playoffs Although Chamberlin said Thursday that his staff has not counted votes, he estimated his office will receive more than 300 ballots. A total of 374 were mailed to NSAA member schools.

> A minimum of 131 schools must participate in the voting to make the referendum valid under NSAA bylaws. Chamberlin indicated the NSAA may release the results of the referendum within 10 days.

He added that many schools have expressed a desire that their votes be kept secret. However, the NSAA Board of Control, which meets May 24 in Omaha, could decide to make all votes public.

While Lincoln voted affirmatively for a prep football playoff, reaction elsewhere in the Class A ranks appeared mixed.

According to a North Platte Telegraph survey, six of eight Big 10 Conference schools -Scottsbluff, Hastings, Columbus, Norfolk, Grand Island and Fremont — voted against the proposed playoff.

Alliance and McCook cast the Big 10's affirmative votes. Kearney and North Platte had not voted by Thursday afternoon.

Judger To Miss

PARIS, Ky. (AP) - Seth Hancock, the owner of Judger, said Thursday his colt will not run in the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico race track in Baltimore May 18.

Hancock told newsmen. 'Pimlico has too many tight turns and it has a short stretch. We won't run him there, but we will point him for the Belmont.

"There's a good chance we will be running him in the Jersey Derby too," Hancock said.

Judger and his stablemate, Connonade, winner of the Kentucky Derby, left Louisville by plane Sunday to prepare for the Preakness. Trainer Woody Stephens had indicated both would run in the second Triple Crown event, but as early as Sunday, Hancock was quoted as saying he might hold Judger out for the longer Belmont Stakes June 9.

The entry of Judger and Cannonade was favored to win the Derby, but most considered Judger, who wound up eighth, as the stronger of the two colts.

WFL May Seek QB Jurgensen

WASHINGTON (UPI) -Coach-General Manager Jack Pardee acknowledged Thursday he would try to obtain Sonny Jurgensen for his Virginia Ambassadors World Football League team should the veteran quarterback be cut loose this year by the Washington Redskins.

The former Allen assistant also indicated he wouldn't seek to sign Jurgensen to a future contract to play in 1975, observing: "I personally think Sonny is a good quarterback but for us to sign him as a future and wait a year ... that's two years down the road and it's no way for us to build a team.

The decision was expected to stir deep controversy within the International Olympic Committee after the endorsement of the Chinese team by the most important Olympic federation, the sources said.

They said a seven-man IAAF delegation, headed by its president, the Marquis of Exeter, would meet with representatives of Peking and Taiwan in London July 13-14.

strong, like Cesar Cedeno or Bobby Bonds.'

Wills, who set the record in 1962 with the Los Angeles Dodgers, surpassing Ty Cobb's record of 96 steals, had only 10 on May 10. His 20th came in the Dodgers' 43rd game. The Cards have played 28. Wills had 43 steals at the All-Star break and added 61 in the last half. He was caught stealing only 13 times.

Brock, who says he's a notoriously slow starter, broke another of Cobb's major league records last year when he became the first player to steal more than 50 bases in nine consecutive seasons.

His career high is 74. He led the majors last year with 70, despite the usual sluggish start.

"It's an unexplainable pattern really. I've had as few as 14 stolen bases at the All-Star break and still wound up with 60. I had 48 in the second half one year," said Brock, the active leader in the majors with 655.

He says 1974 will be a pivotal season in his career. "This year will be the big test for me. It should give me a very good psyche everybody else out.' reading of how many years I have left.

"I've slowed down, there's no question about it. I can't run like I used to. I figure I'm maybe a half-step slower, but speed isn't rules." the most important factor," said Brock, in his 14th season.

"I set a goal each year of 200 base hits. If I come close to that, I can count on being close to 50 stolen bases. Age isn't that big a factor. Your condition is."

He has been thrown out only once this season-in his initial attempt. He's one theft away from his career-high streak of 21, lineup.

What enables him to burn up the bases so effectively? "That's like asking a priest what he hears at confession," he grinned.

"I will say this. You don't steal on the catcher. I only go when I've got a 99 per cent chance. Everything involved is based on a very positive attitude. First, you've got to be daring.

Brock rates Cedeno, Houston's young standout, as an eventual challenger. "He defies pitchers. But he'll have too many extra-base hits. That will cut down his chances.

Despite his own success. Brock says, "I do not consider myself a master in the art of base stealing. It's something that comes natural.

Fastest Clocking To Foyt

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) -Battle-scarred A. J. Foyt, his sights firmly on an unprecedented fourth Indianapolis 500 triumph, posted a torrid lap of 196.249 miles an hour Thursday as speeds soared at Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Foyt, winner in 1961, 1964 and 1967, whipped his Jim Gilmoreowned Coyote around the 21/2mile oval in 45.84 seconds to record the fastest unofficial time of four days of practice.

The Texan, who will be 40 next January, thus became the oddson choice to win the coveted front row pole position in the first round of qualifying runs Saturday.

Several other contenders upped their own speeds past the 190 m.p.h. barrier, but the ancient brickyard buzzed with admiration for the veteran of 21 years in racing who is preparing for his 17th start in the world's premiere auto race.

"Old Tex has mounted the boost in his engine," one observer said. "He's just trying to "No way," said another.

'He's just flat-out flying, and he'll be doing it on race day. He's found the answer to a chassis that will fit the current

In any event, Foyt's lowslung, home-built machine wound up the busiest pre-qualifying practice session almost three miles an hour faster than any other entrant—and a whopping seven miles ahead of his qualifying speed of last year, when he almost didn't make the starting

But the speed chart indicates there are several other drivers who are mounting pretty good 'horses' for this 58th running of the richest event in racing.

Wally Dallenbach, winner of the 1973 California 500, marched his Eagle to the garage after turning a lap at 193.434

Johnny Rutherford, who set record speeds of 199.071 for one lap and 198.413 for four laps to win the pole for the 1973 race, also got into the act. His team McLaren was clocked at 192.389 Omaha Cathedral 88 Omaha Dominican

Others getting past the 190 mark during a gloomy but rainless day included Bobby Unser, 191.082; Al Unser, 191.570; Britisher David Hobbs, 190.411, and 1973 winner Gordon Johncock, Johncock, a stubby blond who lives in Phoenix, later brushed his Eagle against the wall in the southeast short chute. The car was slightly damaged. John-

There was one other spin during the chilly day. Jigger Sirois' northeast turn and slid 700 feet into the grass. There was no damage to the car or driver.

Wrist Wrestler 'Dares' Riggs

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) -Jackie Allard, Nevada state women's wrist wrestling champion, Thursday issued a challenge to Bobby Riggs.

Ms. Allard, 24, 5-feet-9 and 160 pounds, said she wants to meet Riggs May 18 at the national wrist wrestling championships at a Las Vegas hotel.

No money was mentioned in the challenge, but a spokesman said Riggs would have "plenty of opportunity for side wagering in the gambling capital of the world.

Riggs, 56, who beat Margaret Court but lost to Billie Jean King in tennis matches, could not be reached for comment.

More Call On Nixon To Quit

WASHINGTON (AP) - One House Republican leader said Thursday the country would benefit if President Nixon resigned and another said Nixon should consider resignation "as a possible option."

Sen. Marlow Cook, a Kentucky Republican, said Nixon should consider resignation, and informed sources said that Sen. Richard Schweiker, a Pennsylvania Republican, would call for Nixon's resignation at a news conference scheduled here Friday.

Rep. John B. Anderson, chairman of the House Republican conference, said the country would benefit. Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona, House GOP leader, said Nixon "ought to consider resignation as a possible option" if erosion of public confidence bars him from effectively carrying out his duties.

Their comments came on the day the House Judiciary Committee met behind closed doors for the initial presentation of evidence in its inquiry into whether there are grounds for impeachment of President Nixon.

The Senate Watergate Committee also met behind closed doors with C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, Nixon's personal friend. appearing.

The committee has subpoenaed detailed financial records of Rebozo, including those dealing with loans to or from Nixon, Patricia Nixon Cox and the President's two brothers, court papers showed.

The Senate committee also voted to issue a new subpoena for Alexander M. Haig Jr., White House chief of staff, who last week invoked executive privilege in refusing to testify about $100,000 which Rebozo has said he received from a representative of Howard Hughes in 1969 and 1970. Rebozo has said the money was intended as a Nixon campaign contribution but was kept in a vault and returned to Hughes last year.

Elsewhere at the Capitol, a final draft of a proposed House report concludes that President Nixon's homes have cost $17.1 million in federal funds and says federal agencies should try to recover any improper expenditures.

The report will be considered by the House Government Operations Committee next Tuesday. Copies were sent to members Thursday, and The Associated Press was permitted to take extensive notes from one

The draft report includes the findings previously disclosed that some of the spending was for items "far in excess of what was required to meet security requests. Anderson said he and other

Republican congressional leaders have considered going to Nixon and asking him to resign. But he said they have decided to wait until after a House vote on impeachment. Rhodes, when asked if the GOP leaders might personally press upon Nixon a suggestion that he quit, seemed to choose his words carefully as he replied "I know of no definite plan at this time."

At the White House, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said Nixon "is determined to remain in office despite the comments by some and the attacks by others.'

In a statement issued by his office here. Sen. Cook said that he is "now firmly convinced that resignation is a course of action which he (Nixon) must realistically contemplate in order that the confidence and faith of the American people in our government can be restored . . .

The Los Angeles Times, the Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Kansas City Times, all of which endorsed President Nixon in his 1968 and 1972 campaigns, in their Friday editions called for Nixon's impeachment or resignation.

Cincinnati Reds Assist Burn Unit

If the Cincinnati Reds major league baseball team has some extra boosters on the sixth level of St. Elizabeth Community Health Center, it will be understandable. Sixth level at St. Elizabeth is the site of Nebraska's first specialized treatment area for burn and trauma patients. It was opened in mid-December 1973 as a four-bed unit.

Sparked by the interest of Lincoinite and Reds' pitching coach Larry Shepard. St. Elizabeth received a donation of $1.200 from members of the Cincinnati team to be used "towards the cost of equipment that you deem necessary for the burn unit

A note with the donation said Not only are our thoughts and prayers with those who suffer burns, but also our desire to make it a little less painful by our offerings.

The note was signed by Shepard, manager Sparky Anderson, and players Johnny Bench. Jack Billingham. Pedro Borbon. Clay Carroll. Don Gullett. Tom Hall. Clay Kirby. Mike McQueen, Joe Morgan, Roger Nelson, Fred Norman, Pat Osburn. Tony Perez and Pete Rose.

St Elizabeth executive director Jack E. Stiles said it was an "outstanding tribute to these men, whose homes are in communities far from our own, that they should take an active interest in something simply because they see a need and a way to help others

Park Board Endorses Pool For Meadowlane

By LYNN ZERSCHLING Star Staff Writer

The city's next swimming pool will be adjacent to the Meadowlane School under a plan endorsed by the Parks and Recreation Board Thursday.

The board unanimously selected that east Lincoln location over a site in the Seacrest Field area after a board subcommittee held several public hearings on the matter and made its recommendation.

Residents of both areas had petitioned for a pool in their respective neighborhoods

Subcommittee member Ralph Giebelhaus reported that construction of pools at both locations would be justified. He noted, however, that the board already has submitted its 1974-75 capital improvements budget.

That budget has plugged in $240,000 for one pool at an unspecified spot. The planning commission also has endorsed that plan.

The final decision rests with the City Council which will hold its annual budget hearing in mid August.

The Meadowlane area warrants the facility. Giebelhaus maintained. since a greater number of potential swimmers live within a one mile radius of the school

Recreation Superintendent Dick Leker said September, 1973, school enrollment figures show there are 700 more students between the ages of 5-19 living in that area than around Seacrest Field.

If for some reason the city cannot reach an agreement with the School Board to use adjacent Meadowlane school property, Giebelhaus recommended that the pool be built in Seacrest Field instead.

Board members pointed out that construction of a pool in that south Lincoln location will

the board has tried for a swimming pool in east Lincoln Last year, the board budgeted

$450,000 for a combination indoor-outdoor pool. The pool was slashed at budget time. This year the board is trying for an outdoor facility only since the city's high school pools are open to the public on weekends. The board also went on record supporting the concept of developing a mammoth tennis court complex at Woods Park

The board directed board chairman Clanev Woolman to appoint a special committee to study the proposal submitted by the Lincoln Tennis Association

Association President Jack Eidswick presented a detailed proposal to the board which called for construction of a twolevel clubhouse, hiring of a pro to manage the center and give lessons, construction of additional courts to reach 24 with six to be converted to indoor courts during the winter months and construction of windbreaks and bleachers.

Architect Bob Dawson said the complex could be built in stages. He estimated a 2.000square-foot clubhouse would cost around $60,000, which included the extension of utilities to the facility

Eidswick said the tennis center could pay for itself by charging fees for various ac-

A survey conducted by Eidswick showed that people lined up to play at Woods Park. leaving various neighborhood tennis courts vacant

As a temporary measure Woolman suggested the board could advertise the location of those courts to the public.

Each of the 38 committee members received a thick black loose-leaf notebook containing an index of all the material collected by the impeachment inquiry staff

The members also received another notebook which included specific statements bearing on the allegations against the President and documents and transcripts dealing with them

Fluoridation - a hot potato in Nebraska before and since its enactment by the State Legislature last year - will definitely dominate special issues facing voters in the state next

In at least 100 communities across the state, voters will decide whether or not to add fluorides to their water systems as ordered by the Legislature. The balloting will be held in conjunction with the state's May 14 primary At the time the fluoridation measure was passed, the Unicameral incorporated a compromise amendment giving the municipalities until Jan 1, 1975, to exempt themselves through the initiative petition process The fluoridation law resulted from efforts of Nebraska Dental Assn officials who declare fluorides are important in preventing tooth decay especially in children

Last month fluoridation suffered defeat in all 15 towns where it appeared on the ballot during municipal elections

State and national dental spokesmen have attributed the decisive defeat to emotionalism, fear and concern about cost

executive director of the American Dental Assn. declared during the recent Nebraska Dental Assn 's convention, "Someone plants an ounce of fear, and it takes a ton of good data to counteract it

Dr. Herbert Seberg of Hastings. chairman of the state dental association's fluoridation committee. has estimated that a fluoridation unit would cost only between $500 to $1,000 Meanwhile, opponents say opposition is actuated not so much by concern over loss of local control as over the right of the individual to choose his own physician," according to William Holman of Ord. chief spokesman of the Nebraska Committee for Pure Air and Water Inc.

Currently 13 towns in the state are fluoridating their water, some taking this action prior to enactment of the state law. These communities, according to the State Health Department records are Auburn, Bellevue Blue Hill. Columbus. Fairbury Lincoln Nebraska City, Neligh Omaha O'Neill, Rushville, Superior and Utica reveal that 55 communities in the state have enough natural fluoride in their water and thus are exempt from fluoridating their water.

Eight Lancaster County towns -Panama Raymond Roca Sprague

Waverly, Bennet, Davey and Hickman have placed the fluoridation issue on their ballots next Tuesday Larger cities in the state too will be balloting on the measure, including Grand Island, Hastings, Beatrice Holdrege Aurora and David City

In Saline County Wilber, Friend Dorchester Western, Swanton and Tobias have included the issue on their ballots

Farm, Food Price Decline Slows Wholesale Index Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farm and food prices declined for the second consecutive month in April, slowing the over-all rise in wholesale prices to its lowest rate in six months, the government said Thursday.

The Labor Department said the wholesale price index rose a seasonally adjusted seven-tenths of 1 per cent in April. Unadjusted the increase was five-tenths of 1 per cent.

Though still substantial by normal standards, it was the first time in six months that prices have not risen by more than a full percentage point.

Wholesale prices rose an adjusted 1.3 per cent in March and 1.2 per cent in February, following spurts of 3.1 per cent in January, 2.2 per cent in December and 1.8 per cent in November. Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said: "The declines in farm product prices are likely to be reflected in much smaller increases in retail food prices than occurred" over the first three months of the year.

He attributed the sharp increase in the industrial commodity component to the lagged adjustment of prices following the gradual sectorby-sector phase-out of price controls.

An adjusted 3 per cent decline in farm and food prices last month was offset by sharp increases in a broad range of industrial commodities for the second consecutive month. Industrial prices, viewed as a more sensitive measure of inflation than food prices, advanced by an adjusted 2.3 per cent in April following an increase of 2.9 per cent in March. Despite the smaller rate of increase last month, over-all wholesale prices were 18.8 per cent above a year ago. Farm and food prices were up 14.7 per cent over the year and industrials up 20.7 per

The wholesale price index stood at 155.3. meaning that it cost $155.30 to buy a variety of wholesale goods that cost $100 in the 1967 base

The government said farm products declined 5.5 per cent in April. Decreases included grains, down 19 per cent; live poultry, off 12.1 per cent; livestock, down 6.7 per cent and eggs off 10.3 per

Connally Interceded For Friend

© The New York Times

Washington - John B. Connally, while secretary of the treasury, telephoned the Justice Department repeatedly to express his fear that Jake Jacobsen, his long-time friend. was being unfairly treated in the department's investigation of a Texas saving and loan scandal, according to authoritative sources

The sources said Connally made two such calls to then Atty Gen. John N. Mitchell. The sources said two subsequent calls were made to Richard G. Kleindienst, who succeeded Mitchell in April 1972.

It could not be learned whether the calls to Kleindienst came before or after Connally. former Texas governor, resigned from the Treasury Department iл June 1972.

Each time, the sources said, Connally's message was the same that Jacobsen, a former aide to the late President Johnson, had assured him of his innocence in connection with the alleged misapplication of funds and that he feared Jacobsen was the target of a Republican 'vendetta' against Texas

Democrats in general.

After each call, according to the sources, word of Connally's inquiry was relayed from the attorney general's office to Henry E. Petersen, head of the criminal division, who then reviewed the matter with department lawyers in the fraud section who were conducting the investigation

In every case, word was reportedly sent back to the attorney general and through him to Connally that the department believed its evidence of Jacobsen's participation in the misapplication case to be convincing.

Jacobsen and an associate were indicted by a federal grand jury in February on charges that they conspired to secure a loan of $825,000 from the First San Angelo, Tex., on property worth around $40,000.

Loan Bank Board, one of whose and Jacobsen are also involved.

examiners first noted the potential misapplication of funds in the case, said the board had turned the product of a 10-month investigation of the matter over to the Justice Department in January 1972.

During the two years and one month that the department's follow-up investigation lasted. one bank board official said, inquiries were made to the Justice Department about the lack of progress in the case. Asked about the responses to these inquiries, the official replied, They told us different things at different times. You'll have to ask them.

Bugs Within Bugs Produce Unaided Triple Play

WASHINGTON — In 1929, Secretary of State Henry Stimson closed down the "Black Chamber" — the State Department's code-breaking office - on the principle that the way to make men and nations trustworthy was to trust them. As he later told aide McGeorge Bundy, "Gentlemen do not read each other's mail." Stimson made that remark in 1947, after he had been secretary of war and had encouraged the establishment of a vast American intelligence community To him, what was fair and necessary in wartime was wrong when nations were striving to construct a peace.

Throughout the cold war, Stimson's words were cited as a quaint peep of moral stiffness by C.I.A. men convinced that fire had to be fought with fire. His words, treated as if they bad been spoken in 1929, seemed an anachronism to those charged with ensuring the nation's sur-

When novelists Graham Greene and John Le Carre wrote about the morally debilitating effects of the ends-beforemeans attitude of espionage, their books were read for their drama (the means) more than their message (the ends). After all, the spy as jury, judge and executioner found roots in American traditions of justice in the Old West, when some individual sheriffs embodied the entire process of law.

Now, however, in this period of detente, we view the adoption of totalitarian means to combat totalitarian threats as less than wise; as we have come to understand that we cannot overcome our enemies by becoming them, we have stopped romanticizing the professional spy. The time of the thinlipped Hunt and the hot-eyed Liddy is out of joint, for derring-do has changed to derring-don't.

Throughout the rise and fall of the romance of American espionage, one technique that permeated the profession was the science of eavesdropping. In the 17th Century, that word was coined to describe secret listeners who stood so close to the outside wall that they were untouched by water falling from the overhanging eaves; in the 20th Century, cavesdropping was made easier by electronics, and to hear each other's conversation became the quintessence of "reading each other's mail."

That willingness to listen in, to put the need of national survival ahead of the restraints of what Stimson considered national gentlemanliness, to penetrate personal privacy in order to preserve national secrecy, was second nature to Richard Nixon. He and his chief foreign affairs lieutenant, both children of the cold war, were determined to end the cold war, and a willingness to eavesdrop came with the job.

**☆ ☆ ☆

Step One, using the F.B.I. the President and his men - sure of the necessity of such action to protect the national interest - began to eavesdrop on the men in the press and in the White House to find the sources of leaks.

Step Two, when the F.B.I. appeared squeamish, was to create a "special investigations unit" in Room 16 of the Executive Office Building, which was willing to eavesdrop, or worse, in order to plug the leaks.

Step Three down the eavesdropping road was the transfer of the ability to eavesdrop for avowedly security purposes over to political campaign purposes, as the Hunt-Liddy team moved to the reelection committee. Belatedly trying to figure out what went wrong, H. R. Haldeman explained to the President that John Mitchell had grown so accustomed to eavesdropping that he must have lost his sensitivity to the illegality of wiretaps.

Even at that time, when the meaning of the events of the previous year were being driven into the Oval Office, the habit of eavesdropping was so ingrained that it was natural for John Ehrlichman to suggest that he make a recording of his confrontation with John Mitchell. As the transcripts show, the President told him to go ahead and "gear up" for electronic eavesdropping, adding that he personally did not want to listen to the tape.

The irony is so exquisite as to be unbearable: here was Ehrlichman suggesting that he eavesdrop on the man accused of authorizing the Watergate eavesdropping, unaware that his own conversation planning to bug the bugger was being bugged.

That is the triple dead heat of eavesdropping, the royal flush or unassisted triple play, the ultimate hat trick - a plot twist that would have made E. Phillips Oppenheim blush before using.

The President's willingness to go along with the indiscriminate eavesdropping on all his advisers and visitors should not surprise us, seen as the final, massive dose of the poison he had been sipping steadily for years. It was not wrong, he felt, because it would be used for the right purposes - for History, for Truth. I am not among those who think the President guilty of an impeachable high crime. An addiction to eavesdropping was his grievous fault, and grievously hath he already suffered for it. The man who was ready to eavesdrop to protect the confidentiality of his office was, in Hamlet's words, "hoist with his own petard" - a petard is a bomb, and this one has blown presidential confidentiality sky-high.

Because Nixon would read everyone else's mail, we are now forced to read his own, hardly an edifying activity, and in so doing we see why Henry Stimson was right.

Now, More Than Ever

The desperate gamble to survive that President Nixon took in releasing the transcripts with the claim that he was "telling all" worked at first.

By its sheer bulk, the mass of newlyreleased evidence heartened his supporters and frustrated his detractors. The release of the transcripts enabled him to achieve a partisan split in the House Judiciary Committee, with all but one of the Republican members voting against a letter telling the President he was not in compliance with the committee's subpoena.

But the strategy is falling apart, transcript by transcript. People have now

The glaring omissions in the edited transcripts of presidential conversations about Watergate generated a new cry for more conclusive evidence from Republicans and Democrats alike. What was not omitted — a sordid record of false image-making and sleazy cooked-up schemes to avoid telling the truth — even sickened many of the most resolute Nixon backers. Sadly enough, Nebraska Senators Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska are numbered among those few who have not expressed outrage over what the transcripts reveal about the President and his advisors, even apart from the question of possible criminal activity.

Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the Senate minority leader, and Robert Dole of Kansas, a former Republican National Chairman, are but two staunch administration supporters who have been moved to comment on the shabbiness of the moral tone in the White House revealed by the transcripts.

Meanwhile, old Nixon friends in the media and conservative spokesmen for generations, such as the Chicago Tribune and the Omaha World-Herald, have asked that the President go. With each day, Vice President Ford appears to be growing more and more appalled at what went on in the Oval Office and he is sounding more and more like the kind of president this nation needs at this critical point.

New York Times columnist James Reston this week drew a parallel between the careers of Nixon and West German Chancellor Willy Brandt. Both were faced with corruption in their administrations and both publicly acknowledged that it was their responsibility. But Brandt accepted the responsibility by resigning from office to let the people and the parliament decide the issue and in so doing, he showed "class," Reston said. Reston didn't have to say any more.

The Star many months ago joined a number of newspapers across the nation which publicly stated their conviction that President Nixon should resign for the good of the country.

We feel even more strongly now that President Nixon should go, by resignation if he wants to spare the country an ordeal or by impeachment should the Congress decide he has breached the public trust. The grounds are surely there.

The United States should not suffer a law-breaking President — and evidence may prove that he is — and the nation should not have to live the next two years under a leader who has contempt for and abuses its institutions and political processes and who can't approach the moral standard he himself defined for the

By ERNEST CHAMBERS Senator, Dist. 11 Omaha, Nebr.

The following account is designed to place in perspective the events which occurred during the Judiciary Committee meeting Monday, May

The Judiciary Committee of which I am a member, denied me the chairmanship of a subcommittee to study the legal profession during the interim. Besides drafting LR132, which authorized the study, I arranged its referral to the Judiciary Committee after detailed discussions with Chairman Luedtke

Senator Luedtke did not wish to be a part of the study, so I drafted the resolution to set up a subcommittee within the Judiciary; and it was agreed that I would be chairman. Senator Luedtke authorized Walt Radcliffe, a paid staff member, to work with me on funding and other aspects of the study. Relying on our agreement, I drafted a memo outlining my plans, and it was circulated among lawyers throughout the state. I made tentative contacts with lawyers, judges, law students, the dean of Creighton Law College, various law professors and other interested parties.

 $\triangle \quad \triangle \quad \triangle$

At my request, UNL Law Professor Gradwohl spoke with some UNL psychologists to obtain assistance in preparing a survey questionaire for the study. Additionally, I began laying groundwork for the establishment of an advisory committee to the subcommittee whose membership would be drawn from all areas of the legal profession, including the Bar Association. It is not unusual to trust another senator and act on his word. I even notified the Creighton Law dean that I would not enroll in summer school because this interim study would take all my time. He agreed. I have been damaged in several ways by the inexcusable action of the Judiciary Committee

The Nebraska Bar Association has been strongly opposed to LR 132 from the beginning. They have tried a number of questionable tactics to obtain its defeat. Pressure was applied on the Reference Committee to kill it. The executive director of the NBA announced on March 3, that the bar is opposed. Governor Exon was prevailed upon to publicly denounce me and the study at the Lincoln Law Day conference (March 28, 1974). Approaches were made to David Tews, powerful lobbyist. to spearhead opposition. A delegation from the Lincoln Bar trekked to Omaha to exert pressure on Senator Fellman (member of the Judiciary) to oppose my chairmanship, which he did.

As a result of this concerted effort by the Nebraska Bar Association, I was denied chairmanship of a subcommittee authorized by my own resolution. It is difficult to comprehend the bar's inordinate fear of me. Why their extreme defensiveness? What do they fear will be disclosed by a study? The primary question is whether adequate legal services are being delivered to the public.

Not all lawvers fear the shaking loose of skeletons The Nebraska Association of Trial Attorneys agreed with LR132 and offered me support in writing Omaha Attorney (and City Councilman) John Miller endorsed the effort United States District Judge Van Pelt agreed even with my position on elimination of the bar exam. Various other judges have agreed to give advice and suggestions. A number of law professors and students have offered assistance. All of these people assumed I was to be chairman and addressed themselves to me, not to the chairman of the Judiciary Committee They had no objection to me as chairman.

Though all senators were aware of my interests and efforts along these lines (including my meeting with the Supreme Court judges and their adoption of Rule 10 embodying my proposals), none offered to help organize this study or serve on the Advisory Committee. No senator expressed opposition to my chairmanship. No lawver in the Legislature possessed the temerity even to suggest a study like the one I have envisioned and done so much work on already.

For some reason, the Judiciary Committee is very beholden to the NBA — or perhaps too many of the members are seeking re-election. At any rate, the committee folded, and violated a gentleman's agreement.

The NBA won a pyrrhic victory by means of their machinations with some members of the Judiciary Committee. Can they afford the ultimate costs? More than anything else, this episode shows the crying need for the study proposed in LR 132. The way the Judiciary Committee melted under pressure from the NBA demonstrates why I must chair the subcommittee. No one has strings on me; I am not trying to feather a law-practice nest upon leaving the Legislature. I fear nothing and

The subterfuge of the NBA was not illegal. but its ethical quality is as questionable as the lawyer activity connected with Watergate. More and more, the legal profession is gaining the unsavory reputation for deviousness, dishonesty and lack of integrity. The attitude of the Judiciary Committee in knuckling under the NBA is: THE PUBLIC BE DAMNED.

After this wrenching, tearing episode involving betrayal of trust and violation of promises, the Judiciary Committee can never be the same. Its former effectiveness has been successfully destroyed

Lee Johnson

Exeter. Neb

I have known Lee Johnson, candidate for Lancaster County commissioner, for many years and know that the voters of the Third District are fortunate to have a candidate of his caliber as a choice in the upcoming election. Lee Johnson will be responsible to the wishes of all the citizens and not a select few. He is not afraid to take a stand for what he believes in

Those of us who know him realize that he would be a county commissioner of whom the citizens will be proud, especially in this day of mistrust of public officials.

Third District Candidate

Lincoln, Neb. Next week's primary election for county commissioner will give the residents of Lincoln and Lancaster County an opportunity to significantly contribute to making county government more effective and responsive to its citizenry. This is especially true in the race in the Third District where Bruce Hamilton is one of the candidates. Bruce Hamilton is strongly committed to working for consolidation of county and city government and feels the best way this can be done is to strengthen county government so as to lay the groundwork for a successful merger PAM IHRIE

Lincoln, Neb

Those of us in the education community should be careful to elect representatives who have shown strong dedication to public education. One such candidate this year is Marge Schlitt, who is running for the Unicameral. The mother of four children. Marge is a teacher aide at Prescott School. In her public statements, she has stressed the need for improving state funding of schools. She is also concerned about special education programs for children with particular needs — the mentally retarded, emotionally disturbed and gifted. We should give such intelligent women a chance to help shape the educational policies of Nebraska.

I want to know how the present county assessor can get away with this practice. Nearly 100 home-owners to whom this has happened have filed suit. However, I am not aware of any of these suits coming to trial.

I challenge the present assessor to publicly defend the above practice and show why his record warrants re-election. I also challenge other candidates to state publicly what they will do to provide relief to those who pay more than their fair share

Lincoln, Neb. I have four children. Three of them sparkle and the fourth is a cross to bear. We have tried everything. It is our conclusion that the fourth is going to take all of our patience, all our love and help. We are not turning against her, because we are convinced she cannot help it. It would be the worst thing we could do and would drive her right into greater tragedies and misery.

This is the way with society. Instead of refusing help and understanding, instead of looking down on and sneering, instead of trying to hide and ignore the fourth child, society should give every "fourth child" more compassion, more love, more aid because all the punishment in the world won't help. We must continually look for the root cause.

Wilderness Park Unique

During a time when we need land for recreation purposes and places for families to spend time, it is wrong to destroy a park. Wilderness Park, for the sake of building a better highway system in order to benefit a few business people. Wilderness Park is a unique place and very enjoyable to use, since it is quiet and rustic. It provides a valuable resource for our community.

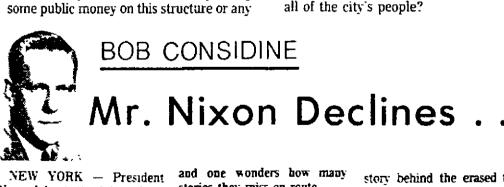

There are always alternatives to building roads, but once a natural habitat is destroyed or changed, there is no alternative nor can it be duplicated in another setting.

DO NOT DESTROY WILDERNESS PARK. It is an asset to Lancaster County. The park's existence is more than just meeting social needs. It is a commitment to a community to preserve that community and not to answer only to the needs of business in the name of economic development

Under the plan, a police officer would contact but not arrest suspected teenage drug users in an attempt to steer them to counseling and treatment facilities before an arrest results.

Part of the rationale behind the program is the idea that police knowledge of a youth's drug habits is an incentive forthe youth to do something about his problem.

The program, which operated on a trial basis from Oct. 1, 1972 until August, 1973, was greeted by mixed reviews in an evaluation by independent consultants.

But Jeff Kushner, state commission director, said he believes the consultants' suggestions, if followed, could eliminate the personnel and administrative problems which plagued the program

The Police Department, which proposes to use $7,489 of its own money, is seeking $10,486 from the commission to resume the program beginning June 1.

The consultant said the initial program was only "minimally successful." The report said only 37 of the 97 contacts made through the program were termed successfully counselled

He said the Norfolk and Scottsbluff police departments are considering drug specialists for their communities if the program works well in Lincoln

Commission members questioned whether a contractual agreement with YSS is necessary, because LCA&D already supports such community agencies.

The proposed affiliation agreement would involve no financial committement from LCA&D: rather, it states, the council would assist YSS in identifying program needs and improvements, share information, cooperate in evaluating mutually planned projects and extend its services where applicable.

The drug commission will consider the matter at its meeting next month, to which it will invite a YSS respresentative to explain the proposed agreement.

Nixon And White House Aides Struggled With Justice System

the system that has brought the facts to light and that will bring those guilty to justice," President Nixon said about Watergate on April 30, 1973. "A system that in this case has included a determined grand jury, honest prosecutors, a courageous judge, John Sirica, and a vigorous free press." Here in the third of a five-part series is how the Watergate transcripts show President Nixon and his advisers iried to use the justice system.

By RICHARD E. MEYER WASHINGTON (AP) -

The edited transcripts of White House tapes show President Nixon and some of his top aides struggled with the inexorable demands of the criminal justice system in an effort to keep themselves and the presidency above the scandal of Watergate.

- The White House had access to Watergate information from the FBI.

- The President intended to use the justice system to punish his political enemies at the first opportunity.

Nixon "Why did Petersen play the game so straight with Dean: "Because Petersen is a soldier. He kept me informed. He told me when we had problems, where we had problems and the like."

In a conversation with the President on April 17, Petersen defended his moves to keep Dean informed. "I can disclose to an attorney for the government in the course of my work. Dean was, in addition to counsel from Henry E. Petersen, assis- for the President, obviously an tant attorney general, regular attorney for the government and detailed reports on what and there is not anything improper in that."

But Dean acknowledged on doing. This information was March 21 that such close problem - the problem is he cooperation with the White House was "awkward for

Petersen was, indeed, head of Justice Department, Dean pointed out. "To discuss some of these things with him, we may well want to remove him from the head of the criminal division and . . . give him some special assignment over here where he could sit down and say, 'Yes, this is an obstruction (of justice), but it couldn't be proved.' "

Petersen remained as head of the criminal division. His consultation with the White House continued. And on April 15, John D. Ehrlichman, the President's former chief domestic adviser and currently under indictment, acknowledged to Nixon that "the U.S. attorney (apparently U.S. Atty. Harold H. Titus Jr.) feels that Dean overreached them by providing information out of the grand jury to the Committee for the Re-Election. I think that may be legitimate criticism if in fact he did . . . "

Whether Dean did is not clear from the transcripts.

But it is clear from the same conversation that information about the grand jury was used in at least one attempt to suborn

Ehrlichman: "He (Dean) had information on who was going to be called as witnesses so that apparently (Robert C.) Mardian (former assistant attorney general and coordinator at the Re-Election Committee) was able to get around and coach witnesses.

Nixon: "Did Mardian coach them?'

Ehrlichman: "In some cases Mardian, I guess, was very heavy-handed about it, and - " Nixon: "Well, is there anything wrong with that?" Ehrlichman: "Yeah, well there's something wrong with --" Nixon: "He was not their attorney, is (that) the problem?"

Ehrlichman: "Well, no, the asked them to say things that weren't true.' Nixon: "Oh."

In mid-April, Petersen began

Petersen: "Of course, as you know, anything you tell me, as I think I told you earlier, will not be passed on."

Yet, the transcripts show that Nixon advised Ehrlichman on

"Petersen has told me that you, Ehrlichman, are going to be called to the grand jury soon."

Moreover, from his conversations with Petersen, Nixon was able to point out problem areas to Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, his former chief of staff also now under indictment, long before they were called to appear before the Watergate prosecutors

Nixon "That's your only vulnerability, John."

Ehrlichman. "'Deep six' and the FBI business and Liddy. Well, that's interesting . . .

During an April 17 conversation with Haldeman and Ehrlichman, Nixon reported this from Petersen:

"Here's the situation, basically, (unintelligible). They're going to haul him (Jeb Stuart Magruder, No. 2 man at the Re-Election Committee) in court, have him plead guilty, put a statement out because (U.S. District Court Judge John) Sirica always questions the witnesses who plead guilty. The transcripts show at least one other instance in which Nixon spoke of Petersen's comments to Haldeman. The comments were about grand jury testimony by Frederick C LaRue, a campaign committee official, involving Herbert W Kalmbach, the President's former personal attorney, and about statements made to the prosecutors by John Dean involving Haldeman

Nixon told Haldeman "Be sure that Kalmbach is at least aware of this, that LaRue has talked very freely

At another point, the transcripts show that Nixon suggested to Haldeman that Ehrlichman brief White House aide Gordon C. During the final Nixon-Petersen conversation in the transcripts, recorded April 21 in the Oval Office, Petersen, by now the assistant attorney general in charge of Watergate. assured Nixon "We have no mandate to investigate the President.'

"If there's one thing you have got to do," Nixon declared moments later, "you have got to maintain the President out of this I have got things to do for this country, and I'm not going to have -

On April 14, Nixon told Ehrlichman to report to Kleindienst instead of to Earl J Silbert, chief assistant U.S. attorney for the District of Columbia, because Dean had told Ehrlichman that Silbert would "walk you right into the grand

"The better out," Ehrlichman reported Dean as saying, "would be to go to Kleindienst who will probably step aside and refer you to Dean. Dean would in turn say to Henry Petersen, 'They have done this little investigation over at the White House Petersen would in turn inform Silbert who would say, 'I've got more than I can handle here now. We'll wait and interview that guy later."

The Lincoln Star Friday, May-10, 1974 Refused By Court

. .In Rape Case By The Associated Press

A divided Nebraska Supreme Court ruled 5-2 Thursday that when new evidence is offered to support a motion for a new trial, it must be strong enough to indicate a different verdict would likely result.

In a case involving the rape of a 15-year-old girl, the court also ruled the evidence would be new only if the defense had no access to it during lower court proceedings.

The defendant, Gary Seger, was convicted in Holt County District Court of rape in December, 1972. His attorney asked the high court to grant a new trial because of new evidence in the form of a polygraph test taken by the alleged victim, and because the initial case had not gone to trial within six months, as required by

In the majority opinion, Chief Justice Paul White said the record indicated the polygraph test was available during lower court proceedings, but that Seger's attorney did not ask for it, although he knew it existed.

The court further ruled that any error on which a new trial could be based must be presented in a motion to the lower court before it can be considered by the Supreme Court. On that basis, the court ruled, it could not consider an appeal based on Seger's contention that he had not gone to trial within six months.

Justice Lawrence M. Clinton dissented, saying Seger's counsel failed to preserve the right of appeal on the basis of the time element involved.

Clinton wrote, "The record clearly demonstrates that such failure resulted wholly from the mistake of the prosecutor," and consequent misinformation given the court.

Clinton said there had been a clear violation of the 6th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and that he would vacate the conviction and direct absolute discharge of Seger. Justice Hale McCown joined in the dissent.

In other action the high court:

—Upheld the first degree murder con-viction of William Bland, sentenced to life imprisonment for the robbery-slaying of John R. Wisotzkey of Omaha. The appeal contended there was no evidence that Bland intended to rob the victim; but the court held there was evidence that he the court held there was evidence that he was involved in the assault with persons was involved in the assault with persons who did rob Wisolzkey.

—Reversed and remanded theforgery conviction, from Box Butte County District Court, of Eddie Addison. The court held a conviction cannot be sustained without proof of forgery.

—Reversed and remanded a Saunders County District Court decision involving payment on notes by John F. Kennedy College to Grant G. Fieldler.

—Affirmed a Douglas County District Court award of $19,230,70 to Elena Siciunas for injuries she sustained as a passenger in a vehicle operated by the Checker Cab Co. Inc., of Omaha.

—Upheld the conviction of Ruchell White of Omaha on a charge of possessing drugs for distribution, but remanded if to Bouglas County District Court for resentencing.

Quilted Memories

Editor's Note: This is a letter "I wrote to my mother when she was 87 years old," explains Write On author, Norma Woodward

By NORMA WOODWARD HAIST

Dear Mother, I'm sitting here looking at a pink quilt on my bed that you pieced and quilted for me. It is full of little squares of your life. All of the squares aren't from material I remember, but many bring poignant memories.

One is print from a dress you must have made for yourself. because I remember it as an apron you wore, and I know you made everyday aprons from the good parts of worn-out dresses. I can recall leaning against you and asking if you would please have another baby so I would have someone to play with. Since I was number seven, I'm sure you didn't need another baby, but I was too young to realize that.

I see bits of dresses you made for me. One had yellow flowers and I especially liked the buttons I chose for it — they were in the shape of pieces of fruit. One brings back memories of me in the third grade and a teacher I loved

Another is blue and white striped, and I wanted it made with a "dirndle" skirt, which was in fashion then. Since I had a mother who could sew, I could have all the newest styles in school dresses.

One print is red and white with blue stars and anchors on it. My friend and I wanted to make blouses and shorts alike one summer and we chose that material. You didn't approve because we ordered it from an inexpensive mail-order house and you said it would be cheap and sleazy. It was.

Then there are the prints from the countless dresses you made for our three cousins because our aunt, with her nine children, didn't have time to sew. Other prints must have come from dresses you made for your many grandaughters.

There is a piece in aqua blue with tiny gray kittens on it, a maternity dress I made myself when we were expecting our first dear little girl who did not live. There is a pink segment with brown keys on it which I made for me when one of our boys was a baby.

Sometimes I think I should put the quilt away in a box and save it. But why? It gives me great pleasure to see it each morning as I make our bed. I see bits of memories from the time I was a little girl to today.

My Mother's Day Party

Editor's Note: Write On sion was not greeted with "I told author, Beatrice Beal, is a retired school teacher.

By BEATRICE BEAL

All of the little third grade girls knew of the birthday party, as did I. Packages rested on their desks ready to be carried to the party. My desk held nothing but the usual books and the inkwell which I could lift up and use now that I was far enough along to use a pen and ink.

I was told not to go to the party by my Mother in a sad and pleading voice. She had not been able to buy a gift for me to take to the party, so I should come home. That proved too hard for me to obey.

On my way home I passed the birthday party home. The girls overpowered me, with my thin little arms pulled by their stronger ones. There was little resistance! There I was at the party with the girls and their gifts. We had small chairs to sit on and the games were fun.

I almost forgot the gift I should have had. The aunt came along with a pitcher of cocoa and cookies. I heard her ask each little girl what she had brought in her package.

you bring?" she asked me. I couldn't speak so I handed her my empty cup and began to cry.

Not remembering to thank the hostesses I ran the four blocks to home and Mother. My confesyou so." But a pair of warm shoulders supported me as I finished my shower of tears.

The kitchen was very hot; the cook stove oven door stood open as she took out four loaves of golden crusted bread, spreading generous amount of homemade butter over the tops. Then she selected one of her beautiful "tea leaf" platters and placed on it a loaf of bread wrapped in a hand woven towel.

I went back to the party happy to give the lovely platter, and the fragrance of the bread hurried me back the four blocks to the house of party.

That was many years ago but that was the birthday party never to forget. I call it my "Mother's day party" for the little freckled, bashful girl.

Conzoosations 3 Baby Bears Romp At Zoo

> By LINDA OLIG Star Staff Writer

Hi! I'm Chopper, the baby black bear. My sisters and I want to welcome you to another fun season at the Lincoln Children's

We are North American black bears — and are a mere three months old. We can't remember ever not being in Lincoln, for we came here soon after our birth.

From the moment a big, silver bird that flew through the clouds brought us to your city, until just a week or so ago, we lived at the home of Zoo Director and Mrs. Alan Bietz.

And we just have to admit that we were a bit didscombobulated when we first were put in our summer home, Bear Island, here

All we did the first few days was cry. But now we have adjusted to our new surroundings and spend most of our time chasing each other around our island, playing tag, entertaining ourselves with mock battles, getting stuck in the tree and splashing in the water generally hamming it up for our visitors who egg us on by tossing us an animal cracker or two.

Mmmm! We just love animal crackers. In fact, we're such hungry little critters that we would eat just about anything. anytime, all the time.

Our relatives who live out of captivity eat just about anything, too. They just love vegetation shoots and tubers. But, connoisseurs of round diets as they are, they also feast on insects. honey and berries.

Unfortunately, with the encroachment of civilization into their stomping grounds, our aunts and uncles and cousins often are forced to seek food from dumps and campsites. For this, they are blamed for being

"ferocious killers." That they are not, although they can do battle if they are provoked or especially hungry.

Here, we still are on a baby formula of artificial, mother's replacement milk, whipped cream and baby cereal. But soon we will move on to solid food canned and dry dog food vegetables, fruit, some fish and raw eggs to keep our fur smooth and shiny.

While man has pestered our fellow North American black bears ever since his arrival to our stomping grounds - ranging from Florida to Canada - considering our meat some kind of delicacy, using our pelts for rugs in their dens (oh, my, what a slander to us!) and having sport scaring us into trees, we have pulled an equally dirty trick on

You see, there has been considerable controversy stirred up surrounding the question of our so-called hibernation. Man now is not sure whether we truly hibernate, a time when our body metabolism reaches an all-time low, or we just sleep out the winter. And, we'll never tell! Being just babies still, we weigh only about 20 pounds each. But we are sure to grow. since the average North American black bear tips the scales at a whopping 300 pounds. By summer's end, we are expected to have grown to about 75 pounds.

Mom Doesn't Want To Marry

DEAR ABBY; My mother is 59. Six months ago, Dad died after a short illness and she was so despondent she said she didn't want to go on living.

Well, somehow she got the strength to live because suddenly she tells us that she met a man and he asked her to go to Hawaii with him! I should have said something then, but I was glad she wasn't despondent anymore. She said this man asked to marry her, but she refused because she didn't know him well enough. Can you beat that!

The whole family is divided over this. I disapprove, but haven't the courage to say so. I think she's setting a bad example for the younger people in the family. My brother tells me not to be such a prude. He says we should thank the good Lord she isn't crying all over us and wanting to move in.

How do you feel about it, Ab-

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-yearold girl who lives next door to a lady who has two little kids. One is a year old and other is three. On Saturdays, this lady comes over here and asks me if I will watch her kids while she goes to the shopping center. I always say kids for sometimes three or four hours. When she comes back, she tells me how much she appreciated it and gives me a couple of candy bars.

I think she should pay me at least 50 cents an hour like any other sitter gets, don't you?

I have hinted around, but she doesn't take the hint. Is there any way I can tell her without appearing hungry for money? UNPAID SITTER

Plan To House Indians Draws Continued Opposition

Asking for police protection and assurances that "nothing would happen" better than half of the Arnold Heights residents at a town hall meeting Thursday night voiced opposition to allowing Indian people coming to Lincoln for the Wounded Knee trials to use an abandoned barracks for housing.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf told the group the barracks provided by Bud Irons would be used to house only those who come as friends or supporters for those on trial and not the defendants or attorneys.

Schwartzkopf said the Indians will be cleaning and painting the barracks and the city

The mayor said other sites had been considered but were unacceptable because of lack of space or inadequate sanitary facilities.

Schwartzkopf told the residents that it was his understanding that the only trouble which occurred at the trials in Sioux Falls, S.D., was at the courthouse where there was a "bigoted judge" and not in the housing area.

He said the Indians are happy to be coming to Lincoln to Judge Warren Urbom's court because of his fairness.

Residents also maintained that the swimming pool would be overcrowded and their children would not be able to swim, but others who have worked at the pool said the facility had never paid for its own operation and was seldom half full.

Some members of the group wondered why Lincoln should offer free housing when it was not a Lincoln problem.

Schwartzkopf answered them saying that if his son were on trial and he wanted to go to support him but didn't have the funds, he would want the people of that community to be charitable and offer him assistance, adding. "Isn't this the American way?"

Sagittarius wants to be frank, natural unencumbered but often works at cross purposes creating tangled webs complications and building casties on prefense. The Sagittarian self image can be the exact opposite of what is happening outside in the real world in the material areas where people abide by their senses and not by what could or should be the case. Sagittarians seem always to have the most noble of motives — but there is a but and the moral question of ends justifying the means seems constantly to haunt them. Star Staff Writer A request was made in U.S. District Court Thursday to dismiss a suit claiming that 11 prisoners were held for about 72 hours in a nine foot by nine foot bell in the Lincoln City Jail. The written request was made by Police Chief Joseph Carroll and Inspector Robert Meyers on the grounds the suit does not state a claim under which relief can be granted.

A number of other requests were made by Carroll and Meyers. However, the requests, or motions, and a memorandum in support of the motions do not appear to challenge the fact of the incident.

"In this situation, the hardships imposed upon the plaintiffs were a direct result of their violation of jail complex rules and the threat to internal security that the violations

Nebraska On Rail Route To W. Coast

Carroll, Iowa (UPI) - There is an "outside chance" an experimental railroad passenger service route will be established across Iowa from Chicago to the West Coast this year, the chairman of the Western Association of Railroad Passengers (WARP) said Wednesday.

W. D. Keith went to Washington recently to discuss the possibility with Amtrak and Transportation Dept. officials.

The final decision on a 1974 experimental route will be made within the next four to six weeks by Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegear, Keith said.

Keith said both Transportation and Amtrak officials were impressed with the Chicago-West Coast presentation. He said if the 1974 route does not go through, there is an "excellent" chance of getting a 1975 experimental route.

States crossed in the route proposal are Illinois, Iowa. Nebraska, Wyoming, Idaho. Oregon, Utah, Nevada and California. The project already has been endorsed by Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, Keith said.

Hospital Administrator W. Robert Brungard announced the opening Thursday of the Surgicenter, a new concept for one-day surgery on an out-patient

Hospital won't require a costly overnight stay any more.

The Surgicenter can accommodate eight adult and pediatric patients who have elective surgery that allows dismissal within a 10-hour period and requires minimal follow-up.

Candidates are carefully screened for referral to the Surgicenter, where surgical procedures may include, for exam-tions, skin lesions, drainages, circumcisions, vasectomies, or dental work (such as impacted extractions).

The surgery itself will be performed in the regular surgical area of the hospital,

but patients will be admitted and dismissed within the Surgicenter. Telephone follow-up is done by Surgicenter personnel the day after a patient's dismissal. Patients also have access to the emergency room number, where they may consult with a physician or nurse or both on direct call. The Surgicenter is open Wednesday through Saturday, from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Brungard pointed out that Surgicenter

Charges include operating and recovery room fees, surgical equipment used and any lab or X-ray and medication fees related to the surgery.

Refurbishing and construction of the in-hospital Surgicenter cost approximately $6,000, according to Brungard. He said patient savings will also occur in reduction of hospital operating costs and in less time lost from patients' daily routines and work schedules.

The Surgicenter concept was initially researched by the Community Advisory Council, a task force for the hospital board of trustees and administration.

Council representatives visited existing surgicenters throughout the U.S. before adopting plans to meet the needs at Lin-

Lincoln General Wants 10% Hike

By DICK HOLMAN Star Staff Writer

Effective June 10, patients at Lincoln General Hospital will pay an average of 10 cents more on every dollar currently charged for hospital care, unless the City Council denies proposed rate hikes.

The Lincoln General Hospital and Lincoln Hospital Assn. Board of Trustees at a special meeting Thursday approved 6-0 a recommendation to increase overall charges by 10%.

A quorum is six board members. Chairman Walter E. Nolte said other trustees unable to attend the meeting indicated their approval, though that was not binding on the vote.

The board's finance committee had made a similar recommendation, effective June 1. but City Atty. Dick Wood advised that the panel's decision was invalid, since it was made at an unpublicized, non-public meeting without full board ap-

"This is adequate to reduce the present net operating loss from operations to a break-even point," the letter said.

Federal economic stabilization controls under Phases I-III mandated rate hike limits of 6% in the health care industry: meanwhile, Brungard said, increases in costs to the industry have averaged up to 14%. The controls expired April 30.

Under Phase III controls, the letter said, the city-administered hospital experienced $94,254 in cost increases this year that weren't passed on to patients.

The new rates in adult and pediatric services for semiprivate rooms will be $58, up from $52; private, $64 ($58); deluxe private (two available). $75 ($66): three-bed, $52 ($46); hall bed (planned for phase-out)

The package includes the automatic annual increases for length of service, known as increments, which are computed from the base salary.

The team recommended a base salary increase for 1974-75 of $500, bringing it to $7.900.

Last year, the teachers received a 5.5% increase at a cost of $1.8 million. If accepted, the proposed increases will cost ($120); chemical dependency 20%," center, $56 ($50).

Nursery rooms with the mother will rise from $36 to $45. and without the mother, from $48 to $54. The $7 additional charge for a heart monitor in intensive care remains the same.

While no action by the City Council within 30 days deems approval of the rate hikes, the council may choose to approve or deny them; the latter appears unlikely.

"We don't want to raise rates." said City Councilman Bob Sikyta, also a board member, but added he believes "this is just the beginning" of what all phases of city government will face.

He and Dick Baker, councilman and board member. agreed that the hospital's only other choice is to curtail patient care offered, an avenue Baker maintained no one wants.

(At least two City Council members have always sat on the board.)

Sikyta said although the other Lincoln hospitals might not raise their rates simultaneously, they must pay the same kinds of bills as Lincoln General.

They are sharing the warm winds of a daily philosophy, said Mrs. Gridley.

"I never dreamed a school would pick this up," said Orville Kelly, 43-year-old former newspaperman from Burlington. Iowa. Kelly learned a year ago he has lymphoma, a cancer of the lymph glands. His life is measured in months.

The verdict swept the father of four into spasms of black depression.

But last winter Kelly decided that his remaining days were too precious to be spent grieving. He ultimately formed Make Today Count (MTC), an organization for the terminally ill and their families.

MTC's philosophy is for members to speak openly of their fate, to verbalize or even laugh at their mortality. Kelly believes this common sharing helps them to more easily accept dying. He says MTC chapters have sprung up in several states

But Mrs. Gridlev's 25 students saw something else in MTC.

"My class asked how they could be leaders." she said Wednesday. remembered reading about MTC chapters and I thought it was a good philosophy for the kids to have."

There is a difference. The youngsters' MTC club is to help the living.

Mrs. Gridley, 52, a 13-year teaching veteran, had surgery for cancer last November. "I told my students that although we don't all have terminal cancer, all our lives are terminal," she said. "We're just living for the day and we should make every day count. She said the class began the project by surreptitiously placing MTC signs everywhere, on walls, in restrooms, but no one else in the school knew what they meant or who was doing it. The eighth-graders fashioned paper even know what they meant." Mrs. Gridley said Eventually the signs were explained. "I stressed to the students that we

She said the kindergarten class "made a bulletin board of phrases of things we can do to make today count, like 'Smile at a Policeman ...

The students also hope to let the community know about their MTC club, she said, and they've sent club membership applications to President Nixon and other government officials.

Part of the application reads: "We think you are important, and because we think you are important we think each day in your life is important . . . Each day ask yourself: Am I important? If the answer is yes, wear your MTC badge and make today count."

If they want "one to serve the first half of the next four-year term, and the other to serve the second half," Lewis said, "the voters should know it."

Whelan is Exon's choice as a lieutenant governor running mate.

But Lewis, who is also a candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, pointed to press speculation that Exon might seek a U.S. Senate seat midway through a second term in 1976.

"If that's the truth, they ought to reveal their plans," he said.

If Exon were a Senate candidate, and if he were elected, the lieutenant governor would be elevated to the governorship for the last two years of the term, Lewis noted.

Exon has said his intention would be to serve the full four years if he is re-elected this autumn.

Democratic voters will choose Exon's running mate next Tuesday, assuming the governor turns back the primary election challenge of Lyman Mayor Richard Schmitz.

The Democratic team would then bump into Republican gubernatorial nominee Richard Marvel and the GOP choice for lieutenant governor in November.

Marvel: Exon Is Trying To Buy Nomination By United Press International pays an annual salary of $7,500

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, Republican gubernatorial candidate, Thursday charged Gov. J. J. Exon with trying to buy the lieutenant governor's office for Hastings attorney Gerald Whelan, Exon's personal choice for second in command. "If ever I saw a blatant attempt to 'buy' the nomination and take away the Democratic Party's right to nominate its own candidate in a free primary, this is it," Marvel said.

The question Democratic Marvel said, is "why is a political office which currently worth $50,000 to the present governor in Nebraska?"

The $50,000 figure, the candidate said, is the estimate that has been placed on campaign expenditures.

Apparently, Marvel said, "the office of lieutenant governor is of such concern to Mr. Exon that he is spending more than six times the present salary of the office to force the nomination of his hand-picked successor."

Real Estate Group Lifts One License

Kearney (AP) - The Nebraska Real Estate Commission revoked a broker's license and gave another broker a "severe censure" Thursday. Separate hearings were held in

Kearney in both cases. The commission revoked the license of Ronald Bycroft of Gibbon. The action followed a recent Federal Court conviction of Bycroft on charges of interstate transportation of stolen securities. Bycroft is a former Biggon and

Elm Creek banker. The commission censured Bill Heinzman of Heinzman Real Estate in Kearney. Donald and Lola Karenbower of Kearney had filed a complaint

Odds Against Making Open Field

There are only 29 golfers assured of getting to the first tee of the West Course of the Winged Foot Golf Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y., June 13 for the 74th U.S. Open championship. They're totally exempt from both local and sectional qualifying.

The rest of the more than 4,000 entrants, except for 64 who are exempt for various reasons from local qualifying, will have to qualify for the sectional round in 36-holes of play at 56 sites around the nation.

Out of 3,924 in local qualifying only 536 will advance and then only 121 of 600 will make it to Winged Foot.

One of the local qualifying sites is the Lincoln Country Club where a field of 30, including 18 professionals, will bid for just four spots and the right to advance to sectional play June 3 or 4. Competition here will be on May

Both the local and sectional qualifying rounds will be over a 36-hole route, all on the same day.

Totally exempt players are headed by John Miller. last year's champion who won by a single shot after he shot a record 63 on the final round at Oakmont Country

Open champions since 1969, Orville Moody, Tony Jacklin, Lee Trevino and Jack Nicklaus also are assured of a spot in the field at Winged Foot.

Reward for finishing among the low 15 in last year's Open is a spot in the field of 150. These include Arnold Palmer, who is having his problems getting the ball in the hole these days.

Hall Of Fame Sellout

A crowd of 600 football enthusiasts from around the state will jam the dining hall of the Omaha Hilton tonight for the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame banquet.

Five former greats of the sport will be inducted, including Pat Fischer, tri-captain of the 1960 Cornhuskers. That was back when players had to play both offense and

Fischer was the man who returned a punt 61 yards to set up the winning touchdown as Nebraska ended Oklahoma's unbeaten string of conference victories at 74

Against Texas in 1960, he scored both touchdowns and passed for a two-point conversion in the 14-13 upset of the Longhorns at Austin.

Fischer went on to become an all-pro defensive back in the NFL with the St. Louis Cardinals and continues to be one of the league's premier players with the Washington Redskins.

While at Nebraska, he rushed for 859 yards, had 252 yards passing, 87 yards in pass receptions, 550 on punt returns and 796 on kickoff returns.

Lawrence Ely, a three-year starter at center for D. X. Bible's teams of 1930, 1931, and 1932, led vote getters in Hall of Fame ballotting this year to become one of two "oldtimers" to be selected.

Ely was All-Big Six center in his last two seasons and became Nebraska's seventh All-American by earning concensus honors in 1932.

The other oldtimer to be picked was the late George Flippin, a tackle and halfback for the Huskers from 1891 to 1894. Flippin, who died in 1929, was a practicing physician at Stromsburg.

Two others to be inducted tonight are stars of state colleges. They are Bill Englehardt, tailback of the Omaha Indians in the mid-1950s, and Randy Rasmussen. offensive tackle and guard for Kearney State from 1964-1967.

While playing for Omaha, Englehardt had a total offense figure of 3,568 yards and led his team to a 30-5-1 record. Rasmussen still is active as a regular lineman for the New York Jets.

Dan Oberheu isn't likely to break the public schools mile record Friday, but the Lincoln High senior hopes to keep his improvement program intact.

Oberbeu, who recorded a state-ranking 4:27.3 mile clocking in a dual meet earlier this week, will be favored in his specialty at East High's Stuart Stadium.

But his Lincoln High teammates are expected to relinquish their 1973 public schools track championship to heavily-favored Northeast. The Class A-1 district girls

Dakota City (AP) - A federal arbitrator's final report covering bargaining unit employes at Iowa Beef Processors Inc. Dakota City complex was made public Thursday.

The report outlined pay rates over a three-year period retroactive to Jan. 23, 1974, said Arden Walker, vice president of industrial relations for IBP.

He said the arbitrator's decision provides for hourly increases in stages starting at a base of $3.80 in slaughter and $3.19 in processing.

The decision also included a full cost-of-living clause based on the consumer price index with a two per cent deduction in the first year of the contract, said Walker.

He said both company and Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America agreed to arbitration proceedings Jan. 19.

Negotiations on a contract at IBP's Dakota City facility began in June 1972 to replace the existing work agreement which expired April 13, 1973. An extension on the old contract was agreed upon through July 15, 1973. Following that date, the Dakota City complex underwent 27 weeks of work The firm is now evaluating the tlement, said Walker. No Other Paper Like It! Only this paper carries all of the

His career high is 74 He led the majors last year with 70. despite the usual sluggish start

"It's an unexplainable pattern really I ve had as few as 14 stolen bases at the All-Star break and still wound up with 60 I had 48 in the second half one year." said Brock, the active leader in the majors with 655 He says 1974 will be a pivotal

Equity is the name of the game and all three Lancaster County assessor candidates agree that equity in property values must be maintained but offer varying views on how this goal is to be achieved.

Incumbent Fritz Meyer, who has been associated with the assessor's office for 23 years, contends that maintaining equity "hinges on the amount of money the County Board is willing to spend to achieve this goal."

Noting that there are some inequities in valuations due to inflationary factors since the reappraisal was completed in 1970, Meyer said there are, in his opinion, two approaches to updating the reappraisal in order to equalize where inequities may in the county is reappraised on an annual basis, "over a six-year period, everybody would be equalized."

He said he feels that the job can be done but will involve additional expense in order to hire the necessary staff.

Buckner proposed the use of local, qualified personnel who need not necessarily be experienced in real estate or the appraisal business but who are intelligent and can be trained to do the job.

The 33-year-old candidate said he was not in favor of contracting for the work because local personnel can more effectively do the job.

Although computers can't replace personal inspection of properties, Buckner said, he feels that inflationary trends may be added into a computerized system to avoid inequities.

However, he said that the inflationary factor should be removed from new construction costs to put new construction on a par with other real estate.

Computers are the answer to Buckner, who is an insurance maintaining an appraisal and achieving equity, according to

Answers to questions that have been asked about Lincoln Memorial Park's

GARDEN-CHAPEL MAUSOLE

Why a Garden-Chapel Mausoleum?

Since first introducing to families in Nebraska and western lowa the concept of garden mausoleum interment, many have shown a preference for the peace of mind that comes from knowing their departed loved ones will rest securely in the permanent protection of clean, dry chambers, or crypts, as if sleeping in the confines of an immaculately kept room. To fulfill the requirements of families preferring mausoleum interment as a means of honoring departed loved ones, Lincoln Memorial Park is now préparing to expand its present garden mausoleum complex and provide families with the choice that is offered by a garden-chapel mausoleum.

Is mausoleum entombment more expensive?

Taking into consideration the savings involved in not having to buy cemetery lots, interment vaults or monuments and the elimination of such other expenses as grave preparation, the cost of mausoleum entombment compares favorably with that of ground burial - particularly now, while pre-construction discounts are available.

Can I exchange property I own at Lincoln Memorial Park for mausoleum crypts?

Yes. Where present property owners wish to exchange their lots and bronze memorials for mausoleum crypts, arrangements can be made for an equitable exchange. Many families have been taking advantage of this opportunity.

May a loved one interred elsewhere be moved to the mausoleum?

Yes. It is being done, both by families whose departed loved ones have been interred at Lincoln Memorial Park and at other cemeteries.

Is provision made for perpetual care?

Yes. Perpetual Care Funds at Lincoln Memorial Park have and are being enlarged to provide for maintenance of the Garden-Chapel Mausoleum forever.

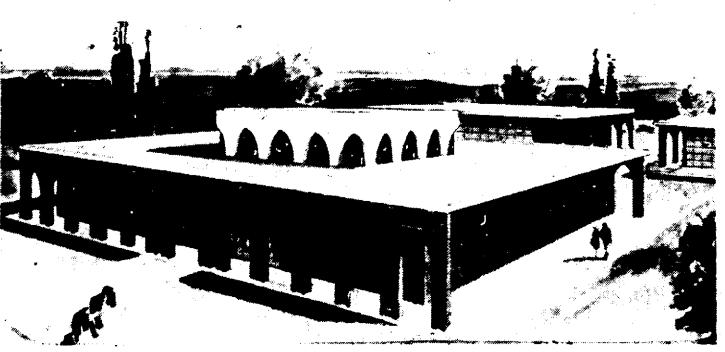

Why make plans now?

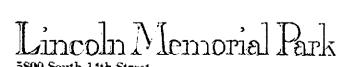

By reserving space for your family in our Garden-Chapel Mausoleum now, you can select from choice locations - take advantage of special pre-construction discounts - and, be spared the mental anguish and expense of this inevitable obligation at time of need. Monthly terms are available at no interest.

Judger To Miss Preakness

PARIS, Ky (AP) - Seth Hancock, the owner of Judger, said Thursday his colt will not run in the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico race track in Baltimore May 18

Hancock told newsmen. "Pimlico has too many tight turns and it has a short stretch We won't run him there, but we will point him for the Belmont

"There's a good chance we will be running him in the Jersey Derby too," Hancock said Judger and his stablemate,

Connonade, winner of the Kentucky Derby, left Louisville by plane Sunday to prepare for the Preakness Trainer Woody Stephens had indicated both would run in the second Triple Crown event, but as early as Sunday. Hancock was quoted as sayıng he might hold Judger out for the longer Belmont Stakes

The entry of Judger and Cannonade was favored to win the Derby, but most considered Judger, who wound up eighth, as the stronger of the two colts

The State Court of Industrial Relations Thursday ordered the Sutton School District to pay its teachers a base salary of $6,830 for the current school year. In addition, the industrial court ordered that teachers be given regular increases of 4% each for education and experience factors. The court also ordered the district to establish a health insurance plan for the teachers in which single teachers would get an $11 a month contribution and family coverage contributions would amount to $31.65.

The ruling was handed down in a suit filed by the Sutton Education Assn. against the school district.
